Russian Fliers in Trouble on Flight Over Arctic Area

One of Four Motors
Fails as Plane Roars Toward Alaska
RELIEF IN READINESS

Fear Russians May Have Been Forced Down in Bleak Snowfields

Fairbanks, Alaska.—(AP)—Three airplanes carrying Russian north-pole flight representatives dashed from Fairbanks today in search of the six Soviet fliers who were believed lost but safe somewhere in the vast unexplored Arctic wastes.

Fairbanks, Alaska.—(AP)—Northland aviators, alarmed at news from one of their four-motored monoplane had failed to fly out over the bleak Arctic snowfields where they fear the Russians may have been forced down.

Sigmund Levanevsky, pilot of the plane with which Russia was pioneering a proposed transpolar Moscow-Alaska route, radioed from Moscow the motor had failed.
More than three hours later, at 8:53 A. M. Friday, C. S. T., the last message received at Moscow said merely: "How do you hear me?"

Levanevsky said he intended to proceed here on three motors. He said a damaged oil line put the engine out of commission but gave no hint he and his five companions intended to interrupt their flight, intended to end at Oakland, Calif.

A few seconds later Moscow lost contact with the fliers.
The plane was 16 hours overdue here at 7 A. M. C. S. T., and an increasing number of observers believed it might already be down.
It is 4,000 miles here from Moscow.

Weather was reported good in northern Alaska, but the Soviet weather camp near the North Pole said the sky there was overcast, with visibility between ten and 12 miles. The temperature was 31 degrees Fahrenheit.

Levanevsky was to land here,
then proceed to another refueling stop at Edmonton, Alberta.
In pioneering the course, the huge plane carried a small freight cargo in addition to its six occupants, twice the number of two previous transpolar flights which ended in the United States.

There was no indication Russian officials had asked a search be started for the fliers, but Alaskan aviators, veterans of many a mercy flight, stood ready.

An authoritative source close to Seattle expressed belief the airman may have been forced down in an arctic storm.

Declining to be quoted, this source held the opinion the fliers never reached Alaska but came down somewhere in the vast, desolate Arctic.

While not discounting fear for the fliers' safety, airmen here pointed to the possibility of safe landing on Arctic ice fields.

The Russians carried heavy clothing and six months emergency rations.

GET LAST MESSAGE
Moscow.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's missing transpolar fliers, in their messages heard here, radioed their flight was uninterrupted by the failure of one of their four motors.
Pilot Sigmund Levanevsky, who with five companions, was enroute to the United States, messaged that a damaged oil pipe killed one of the motors.

"Flying 4,000 meters (13,000 feet)
through continuous clouds," he said,
"Used several tons fuel. Plane is so much lighter we are able to continue the flight with three motors without descending."

Horizon Youth Dies as Truck Crashes Into Tree
West Bend.—(AP)—Lester E. Meit-zel, about 20, of Horizon, Wis., was killed yesterday when a truck in which he was riding left Highway 33 near here and crashed into a tree.

Rodney Wilson, 21, of Horizon, driver of the truck, was in a critical condition with a skull fracture,
a broken arm and other injuries.

Man Who Called His Crime 'Watermelon' Theft Is Released

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Henry Zenick, whose description of his crime as a "watermelon" theft brought down a storm of protest on the heads of Michigan officers seeking to return him from Wisconsin as a prison fugitive, received a parole today.

Hilmer Gellein, state corrections director, announced his release, explaining that the state parole board was satisfied Zenick had reformed and would lead a law-abiding life.
Gellein said Zenick would rejoin
his wife and family in Wausau, Wis.

Public indignation at Zenick's arrest and extradition two months ago faded when Michigan officers established that "watermelon" was underworld slang for the state prison of Zenick escaped in 1924, while he was serving a term of six months to five years for theft of a diamond ring.

Find Missing Man Purchased Cow's Blood in Shawano

City Health Officer Says Stains on Clothing are Not Human Blood

Shawano.—(AP)—Sheriff Carl
Druckrey, of Shawano county, said today Albert Speering, 45, cheese-maker, believed to have been attacked and killed by a bear, had bought a quart of cow's blood from a Shawano meat market Thursday.

Speering's blood stained shoes and bits of clothing were found in the woods yesterday.

Druckrey said also that Speering had borrowed $450 from a bank last Tuesday on a note signed by a friend.

The sheriff added that blood-hounds had picked up Speering's scent and trailed it to a point on County Trunk Highway A, three miles from the spot where the bloodstained clothes were found.

He said no further use would be made of the bloodhounds.

Dr. C. E. Stuber, city health officer, reported that the bloodstains on the torn clothing and shoes of Speering, are not from human blood.

Sheriff Carl Druckrey and Coroner Leon Hartwick yesterday found the shoes and bits of clothing in the woods of the Brooks-Ross lumber camp after Speering was reported missing. Speering last was seen Thursday afternoon when he entered the woods carrying a basket and a fishing pole, apparently enroute fishing and berry-picking.

The sheriff said close examination of the clothing revealed that stains on some of the outer garments did not correspond with stains of inner garments worn directly underneath.

Revive Talk of Special Session
Farm Legislation Might be Reason for Calling
Congress in Fall

Washington.—(AP)—A recalcitrant congress has deferred so much of the administration program that talk revived today of a special autumn session to enact crop control and wage-hour legislation.

President Roosevelt and the senate exchanged a pledge late yesterday whereby a farm price stabilization measure will be passed "at the next session" in return for immediate cotton loans.

The chief executive gave no indication whether he will let the farm bill await the regular session in January or will call congress together in October or November.

Committee to Support Black For Court Post

Opposition Investigates Alabama's Career Before Senate Job

THREE ARE OPPOSED

Two of Four Who are Non-Committal Lean Toward Confirmation

Washington.—(AP)—Statements from a majority of the members of the senate judiciary committee assured today a favorable report, probably Monday, on the nomination of Senator Black (D-Ala.) to the supreme court.

Ten committee members said they would vote to confirm the liberal Alabama co-sponsor of the administration wage-hour bill.

Three members were definitely opposed, while four others still were noncommittal. Two of these were leaning toward confirmation, two against.

The eighteenth member of the committee, Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.) has left Washington for the remainder of the session because of ill health.

Despite this line-up and 5-1 approval yesterday by a sub-committee, the battle over Black's nomination was far from ended. A little group in the senate was combing his record and looking up legal precedents to use against confirmation.

Investigate Klan Activities
One opposition senator said an effort was being made to investigate Black's career before he reached the senate, with particular reference to reports that he was aligned with the Ku Klux Klan.

Others among the opposition,
however, declared they would have nothing to do with such an inquiry.
They said they were basing their case on the legal question of the Alabama's eligibility.

Black himself could not be reached last night for comment about the Klan report.

On all sides, it was agreed Black would be confirmed unless something was turned up to change the present line-up.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), one of the open opponents of confirmation, said there probably would not be more than 20 or 25 votes against Black.

Some others said this estimate was too high.

Up to today six senators had declared definitely against the Alabama nomination.

Wage-Hour Bill Doomed to Wait For Next Term

Speaker Bankhead Tells Reporters Congress
May Not Act

NEEDS MAJORITY

Statement Construed as Death Knell for Con-troverted Measure

Washington.—(AP)—Speaker Bankhead, in the first definite expression from the house leadership on the chances of a wage and hour bill, told reporters today: "It does not look to me now as if that bill will be considered before we adjourn."

His statement was construed by many as a death knell for the con-troverted measure so far as the present session is concerned. It also brightened prospects for an early adjournment, possibly by next weekend.

Bankhead said he never "had it in mind to pass the bill by suspension of house rules because a measure of such paramount importance could not be discussed thoroughly or amended under such procedure.
This parliamentary practice also requires a two-thirds majority."

While the speaker was not prepared to predict definitely that congress might wind up its work by the close of next week, he said two or three night sessions might be held if adjournment appeared in sight.

Pathologist's Report Shows
Poison Did Not Kill Farmer

Prairie du Chien.—(AP)—The case of Orla Shaw, Soldiers Grove farmer, who died two weeks after the slaying of his niece Mildred Best, 11, was back virtually where it started today with a report by a Madison pathologist that disease—not poison—was the immediate cause of his death.

Dr. C. H. Bunting, who made a post mortem diagnosis, reported to Juvenile Judge Jeremiah O'Neill that while there could be no doubt Shaw at some time ingested poison, the actual cause of death was a bacterial infection.

He reported Shaw had nephritis,
a urinary cystitis, a rheumatic heart and pneumonia in both lungs.
This confirmed findings made by Dr. William Sannes, of Richland Center, who made out the death certificate.

Dr. Bunting said he did not question the findings of Dr. F. L. Kozelka, state toxicologist, that poison had been detected in the tissues of the body.

The two specialists made their examination after Shaw's body had been exhumed from a Viroqua cemetery at the request of Carl N.
Hill, of Madison, attorney for the slain girl's brother, Harold Best, 15.
Harold is held in jail here in connection with the slaying. He claims he is innocent.

Dr. Bunting's report to Judge
O'Neill was delivered while Richland county authorities were making a preliminary investigation for a formal inquest into Shaw's death.

Lauer Gets Prison Term In Fatal Wife Beating

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Circuit Judge
Sherman E. Smalley, of Cuba City, sentenced Herbert Lauer, 33, convicted of slaying his wife, today to a term of one to two years in the house of correction.

Lauer was convicted of fourth degree manslaughter by a municipal jury yesterday, was out three and one-half hours from the state house.

The state had asked for a verdict of second degree murder, charging Lauer beat his wife to death in an argument early the morning of May 29 after they had spent the evening visiting taverns.

3 Americans Killed, 2 Hurt When Chinese Planes Bomb Shanghai

Shanghai.—(AP)—International zone police placed the known death toll of Saturday's international area bombings at 52.

Three of the dead were Americans.
At the Palace and Cathay hotels on Nanking road in the heart of the international settlement two foreigners and 130 Chinese were killed.
Seventy Chinese were wounded.

French police said the known death toll on the Avenue Edward VII in the French concession included two Americans and 448 Chinese, Chinese wounded there totaled 750.

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
Shanghai.—(AP)—At least three prominent Americans in Shanghai were killed and two other Americans wounded today in Chinese-Japanese aerial warfare that hurled death into crowded parts of the international settlement.

Dr. Frank J. Rawlinson, one of the outstanding missionaries in China, and H. S. Honigsberg, wealthy motorcar dealer, met death as Chinese bombing planes, supposedly aiming at Japanese concentrations, dumped their missiles into crowded downtown areas, killing hundreds.

Dr. Robert Reischauer, identified by the United States Consulate as a professor of international relations at Princeton, was hit by a bomb in the lobby of the Palace hotel on Nanking road and died a few hours later in a hospital. His leg was blown off.

It was feared other Americans were among those killed, estimated by police at 500.

Bombings Terrible
These people died horribly in two terrible bombings, one near the Cathay hotel at the intersection of Nanking road and the Bund, heart of the international settlement; the other at the junction of Avenue Edward VII and Thibet road, in the French concession.

The two Americans known wounded were J. M. Kerby, employee of Haskins and Sells, New York accountants, and R. R. Rouse of Saco, Montana.

Sixteen Chinese warplanes roared over the city, striking at Japanese warships and troop concentrations, but apparently raining the greatest havoc on the foreign controlled sections of the city.

Besides the two Americans, several other foreigners were reported killed.

Dr. Rawlinson and Honigsberg died in a bombing on Avenue Edward VII, the busiest intersections of the city, where an estimated 300, mostly Chinese, were killed.

Dr. Rawlinson, 66, with his wife and 15-year-old daughter, Jean, was motoring past the intersection when the bombs fell. He stopped the car and stepped out to be struck in the chest by a bomb fragment. He died at once.

Mrs. Rawlinson, although suffering from shellshock, drove the car to the foreign mortuary, turned over the body of her husband and then collapsed. Jean was not hurt.

Dr. Rawlinson was editor of the Chinese Recorder, supported by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, with headquarters at Boston, Mass.

Windows Smashed By "Stink" Bombs At Garage, Shops

Police Investigate Damage To Three Establishments

"Stink" bombs were thrown through the windows of the August Brandt Co., garage on Superior street; the Uptown Barber shop, 313
W. College avenue and the Milwaukee House Barber shop, 402 N.
Appleton street, about 4 o'clock this morning causing damage estimated at $200.

Both barber shops advertise 35-cent haircuts and owners report being threatened previously for charging less than 50 cents. The Aug.
Brandt Co. is involved in the current auto mechanics' strike.

Police were called when the damage was discovered and the department is investigating. Union officials declare no knowledge of the "bombing." The bombs were made of glass jars and gave off pungent odors.

August Brandt, president of the motor car company, said damage to a large show window and a mirror totaled $100 while damage at the barber shops was estimated at $50 each. A tenant above the Uptown barber shop said he heard the crash and saw a man running toward Superior street.

Picketing of auto dealers who have not signed agreements with the striking auto mechanics in Kaukauna, Menasha, Menasha and Appleton continued today.

President Given Case of Peas by Brillion Lions

Washington.—(AP)—The Lions club of Brillion, Wis., expressed respect and loyalty to President Roosevelt yesterday with a scroll and a gift of three cases of peas.

The scroll was presented at the White House by Representative
Michael Reilly, Fond du Lac, Wis., on behalf of the club.

In describing Brillion, Fred L.
Luecker and Oliver C. Wordell, president and secretary respectively of the club, pointed out in the scroll that:

"It is our wish and our hope and our belief that you will derive from this product of the garden spot of Wisconsin, the strength and vigor to meet the great problems of the day, the fortitude to face difficulties, and the cheerful heart to accept in good humor the inevitable disappointments that lie in the path of great endeavors."

Speeder Asks Fine be Given to Cop's Family

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Emil Schuepfert, official of a printing firm, asked traffic bureau officials yesterday to turn over his fine to the dependents of Officer Nels Goodman, killed when he was thrown from his motorcycle a week ago. Schuepfert, arrested by Goodman for speeding, shortly before the fatal accident, Bureau officials said they would give the fine, $13.41, to the officer's family.

Another Sinking Canyon
Appears Near Farm Home

Buhl, Ida.—(AP)—A new "sinking canyon," 75 feet deep, appeared today beside the larger one that formed suddenly two weeks ago and alarmed the productive farm section of southern Utah.

The new depression was separated from the original one by a wall 25 feet thick. Both of the huge holes in the earth were widening, and Farmer H. A. Robertson's home was only 350 yards away. The first canyon now is more than 175 feet deep.

The new area is approximately 20 feet wide and 15 feet long.

Crevice were continuing to open, amid subterranean blasts and rising columns of dust.

Allow Superior to Acquire Utility

Public Service Commission
Sets Property Valuation
At Four Million

Madison.—(AP)—The state public service commission today fixed a valuation of $4,625,000 as the price for which the City of Superior may purchase the electric, gas and water property of the Superior Water, Light and Power company.

The commission said its order was made upon consideration of certain negotiations between the city and the owners of the common stock and other securities of the utility.

Superior citizens voted to acquire the property April 3, 1934. Commission hearings to arrive at a purchase price started in 1935 but were discontinued several times at the city's request.

Today's order, the commission said, will complete its work except for legal formalities that will be necessary if the city completes the purchase. Chairman Fred S. Hunt and commissioners Robert A. Nix and R. Floyd Green signed the order.

The price does not include the property of the Northern Power company, which also gives electric service in Superior.

The commission said they had advised the city it should purchase the Northern Power property.

Attorneys for the Superior company raised objections at the hearings, claiming the commission had no jurisdiction because the city had not followed all necessary legal procedure and because part of the water property is located in Minnesota.

The commission said that if the negotiations between the city and the stockholders results in a sale agreement, the company, in effect, will waive objections on the question of jurisdiction.

Hatchet Slayer Dies
In Lethal Gas Coop

Canon City, Colo.—(AP)—The hatchet slaying of 15-year-old Dorday—once day short of the anniversary of her death.

Frank Aguilar, 34, was executed in the Colorado penitentiary lethal gas chamber last night.

Joe Arridy, 21, also convicted of beating and attacking Dorothy, is due to die in the gas chamber in October.

One of the witnesses to the execution, Ed Hamilton, 57, of Pueblo, suffered a heart attack while the gas was being administered and died a short time later.

Sheriff Thinks Missing
Nurse "Just Walked Off"

Rhineland.—(AP)—Sheriff Hans Rodd today said indications were that Miss Ruth Schmidt, 33-year-old Milwaukee nurse who has been missing from a resort near here since Thursday, was not lost in the woods or drowned in Moens lake, but that she left "voluntarily and alone."

He said footprints, identified as the nurse's, had been found on a little used road leading to Rhineland, and suggested that she had a "slight difference of opinion" at the resort and decided to return to her home in Milwaukee.

Noris' Daughter and Husband Go to Waupaca

Washington.—(AP)—Aides of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska said today John Robertson, the senator's secretary, and Mrs. Robertson, Norris' daughter, have left for Waupaca, Wis., where the senator is resting at his summer home.

Norris and the Robertsons are expected to go to McCook, Neb., when the weather becomes cooler.
Robertson probably will return to Washington shortly afterward.

16 Students Make Solo Flights at Outagamie Airport

With five more students making their first solo flights in the last week, sixteen of the group of 21 learning to fly at the Outagamie county airport have already made solo flights, according to Elwyn West, manager.

Students who have soloed are Arthur Gunderson, Frank Stecklin, Wallace Peterson, Robert Christensen and Marshall Searle, Neenah; Julius Prillwitz, Weyauwega; Gordon Lamers, Little Chute; Helmut Hannemann, Lloyd Beech, Charles Herman, Winton Glaser and August Jahnke, Appleton; Robert Thornton, Shiocton; Fred and Lester Peters, Shawano; and Theodore Murphy, New London.

Appleton Employment 4.7 Per Cent Higher Than 1925-27 Average

Aggregate weekly pay rolls in Appleton during June reached 116 per cent of monthly average for the years 1925-27, according to the latest labor market report of the Wisconsin Industrial commission. The number of employees in June reached 104.7 of the average for those years, the report shows.

With 34 establishments reporting, 3,315 persons were employed in June as compared to 3,265 the previous month. The weekly payrolls amounted to $78,222 in June, a slight drop from the previous month when they were $79,803.

The number of employees in Neenah and Menasha reached 115.9 of the 1925-27 monthly average, while the weekly payrolls reached 142.8 of the average for that period. Employment figures for June showed a slight increase over the previous month while the weekly payrolls dropped from $153,196 in May to $151,885 in June.

Wisconsin factories showed month to month increases in both employment and pay rolls from Aug. 15, 1936 to March 15, 1937. For the first time on record factory employment and pay rolls showed substantial monthly gains throughout the fall and winter months.

Pay Rolls Climb

In June 1937 factory employment and pay rolls were respectively 14.2 percent and 31.3 percent greater than in the same month in 1936 and 67.9 percent and 182.6 percent greater than in June, 1932.

For the last three months the volume of factory employment and pay rolls in Wisconsin has been greater than in comparable months in 1929. During June factory employment and pay rolls were respectively 4.2 percent and 4.8 percent greater than the corresponding employment and pay roll totals of June, 1929.

Factory employees averaged $26.32 per week in June as compared with $22.69 in June, 1936. Between May 15 and June 15 employment increased 5.8 percent in building construction, 12.3 percent in highway construction and 15.7 percent in railroad construction. Corresponding increases in pay rolls are: building construction 8 percent, highway construction 23.8 percent and railroad construction 15.3 percent.

Physicians at St. Elizabeth hospital said the youth suffered a fractured skull, fractured right wrist, possible internal injuries and his neck may be broken.

Stanley Wawronsek, 25 brother of Casimir, told police the latter formerly was a star fullback of the Mosinee high school football team and had attended the University of Wisconsin one year.

VISIT TO GRANDMA SAVED HIS LIFE

Two-year-old Joseph Budnick Jr.'s visit overnight with his grandmother, Mrs. Viola Przybylski, saved his life. The night he was away, his Staten Island, N. Y., tenement home collapsed under strain of torrential rain water rushing down a hill, thereby killing his mother and her three other children. Two other daughters and another grandchild of Mrs. Przybylski were also among the nineteen killed. Here "grandma" rocks Joe to sleep at her home the night after the tragedy.

120th Artillery Band Due To Arrive in City Today

Camp Williams—The 120th Field Artillery band broke camp at 7:50 this morning and was due to arrive in Appleton at 2:50 in the afternoon.

It seems that the occupants of tent number 2 had difficulty getting to sleep at night because of the snoring of Sergeant John (Nightgale) Brouchek. He has been detailed to cut the next year's supply of tent stakes for Camp Williams.

The band arrived in camp Monday night about 11 o'clock after a cold, tiring ride from Milwaukee. The band quartered with the rest of the 57th Brigade within the circle of the race track at the state fair park. Through a mixup of orders, there were no arrangements made for meals for the band on either the trip to or from Milwaukee. Consequently the band fared on candy, pop and ice cream from a canteen stationed at Watertown. The formal guardmount and the Legion parade were each a success, however. The band was stationed at the place of honor, in the parade, across from the reviewing stand, playing while the parade passed in review.

Pvt. Carl Roehl was confined to quarters for the last few days because of water on the knee, developed from a stone bruise. Sergeant George "Bring 'em Back Alive" Perry proved his prowess by capturing a live mole beside the mess hall. It was placed under the first tent along with another mole, which Sergeant Brouchek captured for fear the first would be lonesome.

Restrict Building of Rural Electric Lines

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Power and Light company received permission from the public service commission today to construct rural electric lines only in that part of the towns of Dayton, Marshall and Rockbridge in Richland county where the County Rural Electric cooperative does not plan to operate.

The commissioner said his order settled a territorial dispute between the Cooperative and the private utility. It charged that the company violated previous orders by starting construction in parts of the towns without authorization.

Madison—(AP)—The Chippewa and Flambeau Improvement company was authorized by the public service commission today to collect tolls of $100.00 from five water users.

The company operates a series of dams and reservoirs to control flowage on the Chippewa and Flambeau rivers. The tolls: Flambeau Paper company, $11,034; Lake Superior District Power company, $8,045 on its Ashland dam and $2,374 on its Ladysmith dam; Cornell Wood Products company, $1,247; Northern States Power company, $64,235; Eau Claire Dells Improvement company, $12,030.

Republicans to Map Campaign at Meeting in Valley

Proposed Coalition With State Democrats May Be Considered

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—A party program for Wisconsin will be outlined at a meeting of the Republican state committee, and possibly the Republican voluntary committee, which will be held in a Fox river valley city within the next month, according to party leaders here.

Whether the party decides to make an independent fight in the 1938 campaign, or aligns itself with the Democratic organization in an attempt to oust the Progressive state administration, events of the past few months indicate that the slumbering G. O. elephant is awakening and ready for action in Wisconsin.

The idea of a state meeting to crystallize sentiment has been considered for some time, according to Edward Samp, Madison, head of the voluntary committee, but Cyrus Phillip, Milwaukee, head of the regular committee, is postponing the gathering in order to ascertain the sentiment of the rank and file of the party on the proposal now facing them, namely, a fusion with the Democrats.

Discourages Plan

Samp explained that the fusion movement had gotten off to a good start since last spring, but that Postmaster General James Farley, on his recent trip into Wisconsin, discouraged the idea when he consulted with Democratic state chiefs.

Chairman Phillip has told leading Republicans that the committee gathering, when it is called, will be held in Oshkosh. In the meantime both regular and voluntary committee workers are getting busy, organizing local clubs, listing workers in a membership drive for next year's campaign, and keeping an ear to the ground for what may be grass roots feeling for a Democratic fusion.

Samp will come to the Fox river valley and assist personally in organization work the latter part of this month, he said, and will concentrate his efforts on the Green Bay region.

To Discuss Candidates

According to Samp there has yet been no discussion of a Republican candidate for next year, or a fusion candidate if a fusion is arranged. Despite that, however, it is certain that there will be a good deal of discussion on candidacies at the Oshkosh meeting.

Many union boosters now have two outstanding figures as possible candidates, Glenn Frank, former state university president, and Fred Clausen, Horicon manufacturer, and long a prominent Republican leader.

While the oldsters work slowly and ponder discreetly, Young Republicans are moving forward with plans for a state convention early this fall. Tentative discussion shows that Green Bay is one of the most likely cities to get the convention.

Allis-Chalmers Maps Expansion Of All Plants

Program to Include Most Of Company's Factories Immediately

Milwaukee—(AP)—Otto H. Falk, board chairman of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, announced today a definite expansion program costing $2,650,000. He said the program would start immediately.

The largest item will be an expenditure of about $1,750,000 at the company's plants in West Allis for increased production of farm tractors.

The company will also put up an addition costing about $750,000 at its Springfield, Ill. plant where industrial tractors are produced. At the La Porte, Ind., factory extra machinery to cost about $150,000 will be installed for greater output of the company's agricultural combine.

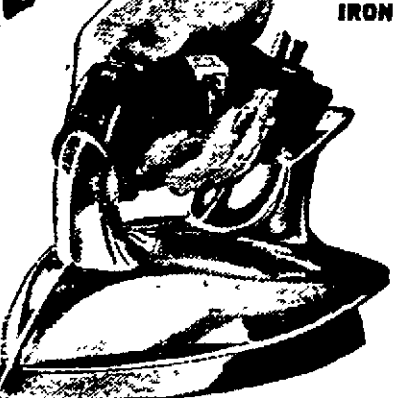

It was not definitely decided, but considered likely, to spend $700,000 for additions to the La Crosse, Wis., plant where farm implements are manufactured.

Falk said nothing would be done at the plant in Pittsburgh where transformers are produced until late in 1938. Only routine additions to equipment will be made at the company's factories in Norwood, Ohio, and Boston, Mass.

He said the company will shortly float an issue of $25,000,000 convertible debenture bonds, of which $12,000,000 will repay bank loans. Of the remainder, the company plans eventually to spend between $8,000,000 to $8,000,000 for enlargements and improvements.

Discuss Finance Problems at Joint Synod Convention

Meeting of Lutheran Ministers to be Resumed Monday Morning

Fiscal matters came before the biennial convention of the Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Wisconsin and other states during its afternoon session at St. Paul Lutheran church Friday and continued to be discussed at a special session Friday evening. The synodical board of trustees presented its financial report through the Rev. Paul Pieper, Milwaukee, chairman, who discussed disbursements and the prospects for the tentative budget for the next year from the standpoint of the board. The presidents of the various districts were then given an opportunity to present the methods they are employing in their districts for collecting funds toward the budget.

The board gave an analysis of the synodical debt, after which the convention began a discussion on the debt retirement program which was to have been terminated June 30, 1937. Because only $249,000 of the total indebtedness of $640,000 has been subscribed, the committee on debt retirement through its chairman, Prof. E. E. Kowalek, Watertown, suggested that the effort toward debt retirement be continued and completed during the next fiscal year. He pointed out that $50 are already at work, although only 46 of these have completed their work.

Present Reports
At the session this morning the Rev. M. Schuetz, Darwin, Minn., gave a report on the regulations and principles obtaining in the support of indigent superannuated pastors. The Rev. G. Hinnehal, New Ulm, Minn., discussed the old people's home at Belle Plaine, Minn., and the Rev. William Roeske, Marquette, Mich., chairman of the committee on the Poland mission, gave the report for that project. He stated that the churches in Poland having pastors supported by the synod have organized the Evangelical Lutheran Free church of Poland.

The value of the work in Poland was stressed by the Rev. W. Bodamer, superintendent of the mission. The Rev. L. A. Wisler, St. Louis, Mo., discussed work in the Negro missions in the south, in the northern cities and in Nigeria, Africa.

The convention adjourned this noon until 9 o'clock Monday morning, the only event scheduled for the weekend being services at St. Paul church Sunday morning at which the Rev. John W. Wendland, South Dakota, will preach in English and the Rev. John Gauss, Jenera, Ohio, will speak in German.

Committee Will Support Black for Supreme Court Job

baman, although many of his southern colleagues had refused to express themselves one way or the other.

Opposition came entirely from Republicans and Democrats of the so-called conservative group which opposed the Roosevelt court bill.

Basis of Opposition
They were basing their case on three legal issues:

That there is no vacancy on the court.
That neither Black nor any other member of congress is eligible for the post because its emoluments have been increased.

That no member of congress is eligible because the post was created by the recently enacted retirement law.

Both of the latter points were based on a constitutional injunction that:

"No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created or its emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time."

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), principal advocate of the theory there is no vacancy on the court, voted in the subcommittee yesterday to approve Black's nomination. He reserved discussion of the legal question for a meeting of the full committee.

The line-up in the judiciary committee—the same one which turned down the Roosevelt court bill—was:

For Black: Ashurst (D-Ariz.), Neely (D-W. Va.), Van Nuys (D-Ind.), Logan (D-Ky.), Dieterich (D-Ill.), McGill (D-Kans.), Hatch (D-N. M.), Pittman (D-Nev.), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), and Hughes (D-Del.).

Against Black: King (D-Utah), Burke (D-Neb.), and Austin (R-Vt.).

Non-committal: McCarran (D-Neb.), Connally (D-Tex.), Borah (R-Idaho), and Steiwer (R-Ore.).

Seek Connecting Link to Route 41

Proposal to Extend College Avenue Will be Heard By Commission

Extension of W. College avenue to form a connecting link between Appleton and Superhighway 41 will be discussed by representatives of the Outagamie County Highway committee and the city with the Wisconsin State Highway commission Monday afternoon at the courthouse.

Rerouting of Highway 10 or 125 to make the proposed connecting link possible was discussed yesterday by county and city officials and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce road committee with C. F. Culbertson, district highway engineer of the state highway commission.

The College avenue extension was proposed to give Appleton a direct connection with Superhighway 41 as the state highway commission has decided to route the road west of the city through part of the county asylum farm.

Campaign Against Speeders Started By County Police

Strict Enforcement of 30-Miles an Hour Law Will Be Maintained

Strict enforcement of the 30-miles an hour speed law in all cities, towns and villages in Outagamie county has been started by county motorcycle officers, Charles Steidl, captain of the county highway police, warned today.

County motorcycle officers have been instructed to clamp down on all speeders in the county. Captain Steidl said in declaring that there have been a number of flagrant violations of the 30-mile speed law. He also urged parents to warn their children against roller skating or wagon coasting on the highways or traveling on roads with bicycles not equipped with lights at night. They are dangerous practices that are likely to bring injury and grief to families, and arrests will be made unless such practices are stopped, he warned.

Farmers are cautioned by the police captain to keep their cows to one side of the highway when they are being driven to the barns or fields. Dusk is beginning to fall early and unless extreme care is taken in driving cattle along the highway, accidents will result, he said.

Determined Group Opposed to Black, Lawrence States

Reflects Nationwide Desire To Know His Record, Qualifications

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Demands are coming from different parts of the country for open hearings on the question of whether Senator Black of Alabama should be confirmed as associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

Telegrams are being received by various senators, stating that responsibility rests upon the United States senate and that it must not allow considerations of personal or political friendship to decide whether a man has proper qualifications to sit on the highest court of the land.

Responsibility of the senate, of course, in the appointing power is equal to that of the president, and, while the constitution says the chief executive may make nominations, such nominations are void unless the other half of the appointing power, namely the senate, gives its consent.

This safeguard was provided by the founding fathers in order that the people at all times might have a check-up on their agents in government. It is especially important in the naming of justices to the supreme court, because two branches of the government—the one checking the other—are called upon to pass judgment on who shall constitute the personnel of the third branch of the government—the judiciary.

If this were not the case, any president of the United States could fill up the supreme court bench with prejudiced persons who would not see equally the interests of all the people, the minority as well as the majority, Negro as well as white man, poor immigrant as well as blue-stocking prince of privilege, Catholic, and Protestant, the Jew and Gentile, and every race and creed and class of the people.

In a sense, the supreme court is the trustee of the liberties of all the people. Upon the nine men on the bench is bestowed the final job of seeing to it that no irresponsible majority in congress and no headstrong president of the United States, or no combination of both, should be able to put through legislation which takes from a single citizen, for instance, the right to worship God in his own way or from the press the right to speak freely of the interests of the people.

Before Charles Evans Hughes was confirmed as chief justice in 1930, his record was subjected by a senate committee to the most searching scrutiny notwithstanding the fact that he had served from 1908 to 1916 with distinction as an associate justice. Also, in the case of Louis D. Brandeis, nominated by President Wilson in 1916, hearings were held in which members from the bar of Massachusetts and other states asked to be heard in order to present their reasons pro and con in connection with the confirmation.

Still another and more conspicuous illustration of committee deliberation is that in which John J. Parker figured. He was, at the time, and still is, a member of the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals, and was nominated in 1930 by President Hoover to be associate justice of the supreme court and was rejected by the senate after extensive hearings by the judiciary committee of the senate. The nomination was finally withdrawn and that of Owen J. Roberts substituted.

Personal Ties Strong
It would be incredible if, after five months in which distinguished Democratic as well as Republican senators have insisted that a great principle is at stake in the proposal to "pack" the supreme court, they should now sit quietly back and acquiesce in the "packing" just because a member of the senate happens to be the nominee. Personal ties of the senate are strong and it has often been referred to as an exclusive club with certain courtesies from one senator to another. But these customs, after all, are of the past. In comparison with the big question which President Roosevelt himself has raised when he announced in his messages to the public, beginning on Feb. 5, that he was dissatisfied with the decisions of the supreme court and intended to appoint judges who would conform to his own views of how the constitution should be interpreted.

Mr. Black has been urging the passage of the court "packing" bill and has denounced the present supreme court in no mild language or uncertain terms. He has even threatened the courts. On one occasion, when it was reported that a federal court might rule against him and his committee for subpoenaing into something like 12,000 private telegrams, he stated publicly that he might introduce a measure taking away from the lower courts the power to issue injunctions. It was an open use of potential legislative power to intimidate the federal courts in a concrete case.

All these things, together with the ethics of Senator Black's conduct in connection with the unlawful seizure of the 12,000 private telegrams, are proper subjects of inquiry for the senate judiciary committee.

Likewise, it becomes pertinent to know what experience Senator Black has had as a lawyer, because after all, constitutional questions and matters constraining federal legislation form only a small part of the voluminous tasks of the supreme court.

To decide the delicate questions of equity and procedure in the lawsuits between citizens, the nation is entitled to men of the highest qualifications at the bar.

At the present writing, it would seem as if there were enough votes to confirm Mr. Black, but there is a determined group in the senate, reflecting a nationwide sentiment, which desires to get on paper officially a record of Mr. Black's qualifications, background and experience, together with an explanation of some of his public acts which have a bearing on whether he is of the right temperament to sit judicially and impartially on the highest bench in the land.

Estimate Loss at $5,000 as Flames Raze Barn on Farm

New London Firemen Prevent Spread of Blaze to House, Second Barn

New London—Fire caused a loss estimated at $5,000, partly covered by insurance, at the Herman Bauer farm 3 miles east of New London at 7:45 Friday morning, destroying a barn 80 feet long and 40 feet wide, an adjoining machine shed, and contents of the barn and the straw stack. The farm is owned by Carl Snider, who recently purchased the property, but is occupied by Bauer.

The New London fire department was called and succeeded in helping to save the house and another barn.

A threshing crew had been working there since Thursday noon, and it is believed that the fire was caused by combustion in the same manner as the $10,000 fire at the Ferdinand Koehler farm near Bear Creek corners last week. The straw stack caught fire first and flames spread quickly to the barn. Some grain, all of the hay and some farm machinery were destroyed.

Nurse Explains Increase In Fresh Air Camp Costs

Neenah—Operating costs of Neenah Fresh Air camp this year exceeded 1936 camp costs by $169.98, $63.35 of which was insurance, according to Miss Evelyn Scholl, city nurse, who presented a comparative report of camp expenses for 1936 and 1937 to the Neenah Board of Health Thursday evening in conjunction with her report on the 1937 fresh air camp which closed last Saturday. Total costs for 1936 were $466.92, exclusive of insurance, and $638.80 for 1937 including insurance.

Camp repairs were also included in the expenses, according to the report, with the next largest bill, groceries and dairy products, totalling $154.44. Meat and bakery goods totalled over $30. Similar bills in 1936 totalled approximately the same.

Regular attendance at the camp this year was 15 in comparison with 13 children last year. Total attendance this summer was 16, last summer 17. Neenah Health Council contributes $150 toward operating expenses each year and the city of Neenah pays the balance.

37 Home Calls

Miss Scholl reported that 37 home calls on school children to determine who should be taken to camp were made during July. From 22 of the homes, children were taken to sanatoriums for X-rays. Six home calls were made because of impetigo. Judge D. E. MacDonald, Oshkosh, sent 21 children and 2 adults to the sanatorium for X-rays only. Arrangements for five other X-rays are being made by Miss Scholl for this month.

Fifteen children were enrolled in the opening session of the fresh air camp July 12, Miss Scholl reported, 9 who were positive tuberculin test reactors and 6 who were in need of camp care because they were undernourished.

Miss Scholl reported that the total number of pounds gained by the group of children was 401 pounds but with the weight gained by three other children who attended part time, the weight gain was 441 pounds.

7 Out Second Year

The nurse said the board members that at first glance such a gain may be disappointing when compared with a net gain of 65 pounds last year but it must be taken into consideration that 7 of the children in camp this year had been enrolled in camp last summer. All of those repeaters had retained weight gained last year and most had succeeded in adding more weight during the school year.

No rebuilding process was necessary with these children and therefore their weights would only be normal gains, Miss Scholl reported. However, such gain aids the child to resist disease and colds during his school year and lessen any possibility of positive tuberculin test cases becoming active.

The greatest weight gained by any one child was 5 pounds with one little girl gaining 3 1/2 pounds in 8 days.

The camp ensemble and members of the board of health expressed appreciation to special concessions made on camp bills and for treats for the children, Kalfans grocery, A. E. Schultz ice company, Neenah Soft Water laundry, William Krueger Hardware, Lieber Lumber company, Neenah Milk products, Jandrey's, Island Drug, Neenah Red Cross chapter which contributed clothing for children who needed it, Werner and Keil who contributed an ice box, Mrs. C. B. Clark, Mrs. Effie Bishop, as well as parents and friends.

Special interest was shown in the camp this summer with many daily visitors, Miss Scholl reported. Chester Obma, state assistant sanitary engineer, inspected the camp and recommended changes in the main building and in the sanitation.

TRAGEDY IN OUTGAMIE

The tragic termination of the Barker-Welhouse romance sounds more like Arizona or Louisiana than Wisconsin for there is always a marked increase to be found in the number of crimes attributable to passion or quick temper in the climes where the blood is hot and ire flames like a rocket than where our temperatures prevail.

Hardly a more regrettable affair could be figured out than this one.

A young man of good name and record finds himself grappling with the "green-eyed monster" of jealousy and disappointment that stirs and slurs and stabs and taunts ceaselessly. He took counsel of the devil lurking in the sparkle of a brandy glass. He was too inexperienced to know that his adviser would dull his eyes to reality and benumb his otherwise normal and decent sensibilities and deliberately aim at his undoing by creating a wholly false and distorted notion of everything about him.

As a result he threw discretion to the winds, shut his eyes and quickly stabbed, and then he awoke to find his cowardly adviser vanished, the sweetheart of his dreams stark and cold in a casket and iron bars all around him.

Youth, occupying the most envious place in all the parade of life, sees fantasies and visions nightmares even upon the very day when its voyage is sunniest and the future's promise brightest. It has mistaken a bit of a cloud for mid-night.

But age has little answer or prescription for the wild plunge into the abyss except to shake its head and share the common regret over the misfortunes of those who act hastily, or with the counsel of the flowing bowl, and sympathize too with all the good people who are related to them and suffer the anguish of their remorse.

Given only calmness, merely time for reflection, Mr. Barker might have just as well laughed off his disappointment over the course events were taking, and even were the laugh a hollow and mirthless one it might have awakened him into a realization of the blank futurity of any desperate act. Now it is too late.

"Too late," is really the saddest expression of tongue or pen.

A SPECIAL TERM OF OUR LEGISLATURE

Wisconsin's governor is preparing to call a special session of the legislature.

It is curious that we must have a special session so soon after a prolonged general session.

But unless we alter practices that have now become common a special session will follow the general session as faithfully as a youngster will follow a parent.

When Wisconsin became a state it was assumed that a legislative session every two years would be ample for every purpose. And probably a session so often would not have been provided for in the constitution except for necessity of raising revenue, the passage of appropriation bills, and the fact that the financial affairs of a state cannot be planned or handled long in advance.

But since we have become ruled by organized minorities, and since too many legislators lack the courage evidenced by a few to state opinions and attitudes candidly, we find our general session not only cluttered with a great variety and multitude of useless and ridiculous measures but actually choked to death by them.

After the recent session had held forth nearly six months—longer than any state but one in the union—it was determined to fix a time for adjournment, not only we take it because a session must end some time and Madison is as sultry as Washington, but in hardly any other practical way could the legislature get rid of about a thousand bills that were inept, impractical, and that a majority were determined not to record their votes upon.

Fortunately a special session may be held to cure the defects without introducing the plagues. The governor is authorized when he calls the special session to enumerate the topic that may properly be brought before it. Thus a special session may really get down to business as long as the governor is shrewd enough to constructively limit the subjects considered vitally necessary to the life of the state.

Although a special session has heretofore been looked upon by the people as a studied annoyance it may become classified as a necessity.

How otherwise may a general session brought to a close in a stampede be cured of its errors of omission?

MR. THOMPSON HAS A "MANDATE" TOO

There is something almost repellent about the way Illinois is spluttering and blustering over the record of Anderson M. Thompson.

It appears that Mr. Thompson is a member of the Illinois Industrial Commission for which he receives $5,000 a year. This of course, is an extremely important position. The man who occupies it is well remunerated.

But, nothing daunted, Mr. Thompson found employment for his two sons on the state payroll at $2100 and $1500 per annum respectively. Still looking around sharply with a Smith W. Brookhart eye he placed the name of his aged mother on the public pension rolls at $8 per month.

What is there about this record to create so much fuss? Why become wild-eyed over so commonplace an affair as following the leader? Having succeeded in making a splendid position for himself on the Industrial Commission Mr. Thompson was not slow in realizing that he had a "mandate" of some kind to go just as far as he could by working toes in deeply and pulling hard with his mighty arms.

Indeed, haven't all our chosen leaders in fact a mandate of some kind to do as they please? And if it pleases them to remember "all their kith and kin" is it not to be interpreted as the people's will?

During the darkest period of the World war a slice of bread in Germany was heavy and foul and black, sodden with weight but devoid of sustenance. The wheat, you see, was scarce, and naturally was reserved for royalty and nobility. The All-Highest said "his people" were too proud to wish hardship to descend upon the hilly handed favorites of heaven. The people, being at the time inarticulate under the rigid rules of war, said nothing but looked volumes.

It is noticeable that, to date, those people have not called for the return of them who ate the wheat when the larder was low.

Here in America we still preserve our right to alter the official status of those men who misconstrue their election as a mandate to do as they please.

Of all the ridiculous things that may be found in traveling over a great country like ours in a year's time you will look hard to discover anything more outlandish than the construction sometimes placed upon a simple certificate of election which really only authorizes the person chosen to live up to his campaign promises, not to shatter them and make out a wholly new schedule.

STRANGE YOUNG LADY

A Glasgow court orders an American girl stowaway returned to this country despite her tearful plea to "send me to jail but don't send me back to America—I hate America."

Once, "in the darkest period of the Civil war," and "to show what love of country is," a Bostonian, Edward Everett Hale, wrote a brief tale.

It concerned a supposed youthful officer in the American army who in a fit of pique during his court-martial for having unwittingly helped Aaron Burr in the latter's effort to found a separate republic with himself as President, cried out, "I wish I may never hear of the United States again."

Philip Nolan, the young officer, never lived, but he was immortalized by Hale as "The Man Without a Country."

Every schoolboy knows the tale of the man whose life was spent at sea, shunned by his companions, never again to see his native land, until his last moments never to hear the United States mentioned, and who, dying, was found to have enshrined in his cabin an American flag.

Now, Philip Nolan was a young man when he was said to have expressed his rash wish. He was an old man when he died and he had learned whereof the poet spoke when he asked:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land?"

The brief dispatch from Glasgow fails to include the answer to a question about which one is curious. Why should an American girl "hate America?"

May there not be some great significance in the story? It has been charged that influences are being brought to bear on young persons in our schools and colleges that are subversive and that are calculated to weaken love of country.

It may be that it will be found worthwhile to question the girl when she returns to these shores. She may have some answers that are interesting.

"Saturday night in the crowded town:
Pleasure and pain going up and down.
Murmuring low on the ear there beat
Echoes unceasing of voice and feet.
Withered age with its load of care,
Comes in this tumult of life to share.
Childhood glad in its radiant brief,
Happiest-hearted or bowed with grief,
Meet alike, as the stars look down
Week by week on the crowded town.

"What are the meanings that burden all These murmuring voices that rise and fall?"

"Records of time-written history Flash into sight as each face goes by"

"And still, in the midst of the busy hum,
Rapt in their dreams of delight they come,
Headless of sorrow, of grief or care,
Wandering on in enchanted air,
Far from the haunting shadow of pain:
Two by two, again and again!"

A much-welcomed supply of material from Blon De arrived just as Stoo's stewardship of the column came to an end, and I have very fortunately inherited it. More of it anon.

Biggest disappointment: coming home and finding College avenue no better off than when I left.

Next biggest disappointment: the appointment to the Supreme court. A new dealer was expected, but certainly one of better judicial caliber.

The city should have made a deal with the pickets to carry new parking regulation signs around with them along with their "unfair" banners.

Pickets now join hitch-hikers and resting WPA workers as a part of the national picture.

THE VACATION WAS VERY SWELL

Jonah:

Had a swell vacation I hear and hope that you may thereby be a vacationed columnist. I really think it is a bit fishy about Stoo being sick because I just saw his wedding announcement in the paper a short time back.

Had no beans, but ate considerable of sea foods. Zeke hasn't favored me with a solitary legend since I returned. Stoo really was sick.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

TO A FATHER

You swallow with one gulp a dozen years,
Worrying ahead for your son's sake,
Adding to his imaginary fears,
Anticipating blows that he must take.

The world will be so different, you say . . .
Will it be harder than the poverty—Struck world that Lincoln knew? Was Franklin's way

A rose-strewn path? Can you fortell to me,
And to your son, just what will be his road?
Certain it is, whatever Fate may bring,
Your son will have broad shoulders for the load

That he must bear, for all your worrying!

HOW MAN DOES IMPROVE ON NATURE

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE ESSENTIAL MINERAL ELEMENTS

From inquiries received every day it would seem that many well educated persons—as educators go—are unduly concerned about getting. I forget how many elements in their food, and as that is not easily done nowadays these glibly souls readily accept the suggestion that one should supplement the daily diet with a few doses of some shotgun combination of all of the essential elements.

What I don't know about diet and health will fill many good books a few years hence. What the self-constituted "food specialists" and diet authorities" don't know but yet teach their customers will fill many pages of history too—the History of Nostrums and Quackery in Yankeeeland.

Having delved earnestly if not credulously into the subject I have arrived at a practical conclusion concerning the elements essential in human nutrition, and I offer this conclusion here. Take it if you think I understand what I'm talking about, or leave it if you think you know more about it than I do.

I believe that as long as you get sufficient calcium, iodine, phosphorus and iron you are practically certain to get enough of every other element that may be necessary for maintaining optimal health or vice versa as we now call it.

Here are lists of foods which are comparatively rich, in these elements.

Good Sources of Calcium Milk
Cheese
Cabbage
Beans
Turnips
Peas
Nuts
Celery
Lettuce

Good Sources of Phosphorus Beef
Eggs
Cheese
Plain wheat
Eggs
Carrots
Dried prunes
Potatoes

Good Sources of Iron
Egg yolk
Wheat bran
Dried beans
Currants
Raisins
Peanuts
Prunes
Fresh peas
Plain wheat
Oatmeal
Lettuce

Plain wheat is wheat as purchased from farmer, mill, feed or seed store. I will send to any one who asks for it and incloses a three-cent stamped envelope bearing his address a monograph which tells why and how to use plain wheat in the diet.

Altho the problem is still in process of solution, there is good reason to believe that in many instances where a deficiency of calcium, phosphorus or iron occurs the deficiency may be due, not so much to lack of the element in the food, but to lack of vitamin D, which is essential for normal metabolism or utilization of calcium and phosphorus, or vitamins B and G which are essential for normal assimilation of iron.

As for the iodine ration, that has been told before. If you would like the instructions for taking an iodine ration, send a three-cent-stamped

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Birthmark

Three months old baby, was born with red mark on forehead. Will it go away or is treatment advisable? (Mrs. H. M.)

Answer—If it has not begun to fade at three months it is likely to remain. Treatment with X-ray or radium gives excellent results. The earlier the condition is treated the better the ultimate cosmetic result will be.

Chlorine

Several of us plant employees work in an unventilated room where we have to use chlorinated lime as disinfectant. It causes our eyes to smart and water and makes us cough violently. Is there any state law? (B. F.)

Answer—I do not know about the laws of your state or province. Your union or organization should be able to protect you—the room should at least have exhaust ventilation. (Copyright, 1937)

Your Birthday

"LEO"

If August 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are: from 11:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p. m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are: from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 5:15 to 7:15 p. m. and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

Events on this date may bring memories of the past that will cause you to feel decidedly sentimental. Romance and poetic imagination ought to make this a day to be long remembered by many. Courtships should flourish, and where misunderstandings have strained friendly relationships this is apt to prove an auspicious day for those seeking a favorable reception of advances toward a reconciliation. Journeys undertaken on this day should terminate successfully. The heart rather than the mind will rule all day, so the wise will play the game of life accordingly. The worldly-minded must be careful how they express themselves, especially before children. Frivolous statements are apt to be rebuked and the makers of them embarrassed by being held up to ridicule, so avoid making any. Married and engaged couples and those with matrimonial ambitions must be careful the spirit of obstinacy does not spoil the day for them, especially when it comes to trying to put over some fixed idea.

If a woman and August 15 is your birthday, you probably believe in speaking without equivocation. You are straightforward and, regardless of consequences, will tell the truth. This character is apt to win you many friends and admirers. Some aspiration is likely to inspire you to make an effort to achieve a goal, that is well worth striving to gain. It would seem your chances to win are good. As an author, teacher, missionary, broker, artist or musician, you may make a reputation and money. Marriage ought to be a great help in furthering your ambitions and providing you with a happy home.

The child born on August 15 is likely to be an exceptionally fine youngster with plenty of pep and ambition. By the time it arrives at its majority it will probably be capable of overcoming obstacles, which might try to obstruct its way to success.

If a man and August 15 is your natal day, you will probably discover a decidedly original way to become very prosperous. As an author, politician, clergyman, author, banker, manufacturer or actor, you may achieve great renown.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—New York, like a kaleidoscope, flashes a jigsaw of fascinating panoramas, startling episodes, thrilling vignettes with each tick of the clock.

So unpredictable is it that there is positively no telling what is apt to bounce up next. One moment it is a sailing and a run-away bride, the next a killing. You see a parade of actors, magistrates, Tammany Sachems, artists, writers, unknown visitors whose very obscurity is the spring-board that will bounce them to fame.

Let's take tonight. Tonight is no different from other nights. It just happens that at a quarter past twelve you enter the elevator and rise 65 floors to the Rainbow Room in Rockefeller Center.

The lights are low and the show is on, and while you are waiting for a chance to be seated an attaché whispers:

"See that man in white jodhpurs over there. He's a Maharaja."

Somehow in the make believe setting his face seems clipped from a Hollywood movie. He is dark and his white teeth flash with pleasure as he sways to the rhythm of some modern dance arrangement which Al Donahue is playing. Then the lights go up, and you see him at a ragside table, surrounded by a retinue of valets, servants, secretaries, garbed in the orthodox raiment of the East.

The man is slim and eager and his eyes are alive with pleasure. He is absolute master at his table, just as he is in that far off Indian world where caste is so italicized and birth so important. When he smiles his whole retinue beams with joy. When he is grave they view the proceedings with the solemnity of ovals.

"Who is he?"

A shrug and an eloquent expression of the hands. "No one knows. . . . A guide from the Cook agency escorted him here. . . . He is seeing America incognito."

But identities, like murders, will out! This is no less a figure than the Rajah, Pershad of Hyderabad, fabulously wealthy, plenipotentiary of the East, attired in the full regalia of his rank. Here under the enchantment of Western entertainment he is no longer thinking of the temple bells and the camels and the miles of elephants with jeweled ears and how-towing slaves.

The music sweeps into a barbaric rhythm and the Rajah, hands up, palms out, beats cadence to the savage undercurrent of drums, swaying to the swing of what some Tin Pan Alley composer fondly calls his brain child.

A bell tinkles here 'too, but it is not a temple bell. . . . It is more

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Without being able to put a finger on the exact spot, readers of the report of the National Resources Committee on "Technical Trends and National Policy" are likely to get a distinct feeling that the writers of this latest national brain tome want the federal government to have more control of the employment of new inventions.

There is much diligent research in the 388 pages of the document, but much of it reads as if it had been clawed out of the piles of theses that any university has in a back room, left there by scholars who wrote them for Ph.D.s.

You go for a scholarly gallop charts and graphs to come to this through polysyllabic words and prosaic conclusion:

"The outlook for the immediate future seems to be in the direction of further technological progress toward a level of productivity substantially higher than that attained prior to 1929. The rate of advancement of course differs in different industries, but since our economic system has not evinced an ability to make this necessary adjustment fast enough, it may be expected that the dislocation occasioned by technological progress will continue to present serious problems of industrial, economic and social readjustment."

Story of Inventions

Somehow, we have felt nearly everybody knew that all along. But somewhat more exciting is the conclusion of Bernhard J. Stern of Columbia university department of social science. He tells an enthralling story of the difficulty various inventions, such as the steam engine, railroads, gasoline motors, and airplanes, had in overcoming public and governmental resistance.

As each new invention has come along, he records, there has been opposition to it on the ground it would create unemployment, would destroy existing industry, or present such a preposterous aspect as to drive people insane in droves.

"In most countries," he says, of recent times, "there have been requests for 'scientific holidays' and a 'moratorium on inventions,' which have found echo in business and scientific circles."

He then states out boldly to commend Soviet methods of fostering technological progress "as a means of achieving the governmental (Soviet) objective of a socialist, planned, large-scale economy for the satisfaction of expanding consumers' needs."

Bid for Red-Baiters

He concludes with an assertion that the economic structure of a society is the principal factor in determining the speed of overcoming public and industrial inertia against new inventions. He hints for government control, offers a planned economy which calls for government control of the masses of the population may realize the benefits of new inventions. He says:

"Capitalism has inherent in its structure and functioning, factors which militate against such realization, and thus prevent industrial production from keeping pace with scientific knowledge."

If that isn't a bid for the outcries of red-baiters, we've muffed it.

Michigan Officials Go To Washington on Roads

Washington—Michigan highway officials conferred today with the bureau of public roads on expenditure of $600,000 of federal aid on secondary highways.

Murray D. Van Wagener, state highway commissioner, said the conference would decide procedure for determining highways to be improved and the letting of contracts. He hoped, he said, to launch the program on his return.

The commissioner said he expected the bureau to submit its Michigan program for his approval. Counties and the state department, he said, would be privileged to designate highways acceptable for improvement.

Approximately one quarter of the available federal funds, Van Wagener said, will be matched by the state and the remainder by counties. Companies having been Deputy Commissioners were: Tammam B. Stelmach, G. Donald Kennedy, department business manager, and Otto Hess, Kent county engineer representing county road commissioners.

Tone Will Star in Show at Appleton

Appears With Maureen O'Sullivan, Virginia Bruce, In "Between Two Women"

An original story by Erich Von Stroheim, "Between Two Women" will open at the Appleton Theatre next week Friday, with Franchot Tone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Virginia Bruce.

It is a dramatic narrative of life, death and romance in a great metropolitan hospital and it has been produced with all of M-G-M's lavish resources. Tone, as an ambitious young interne, plays an effective role with an artistic depth of understanding. Maureen O'Sullivan is a nurse, unhappily married to a brutal surgeon and secretly in love with Tone. Miss Bruce is a cool and beautiful heiress who comes in to the hospital as a patient and goes out as an intended bride of the interne.

The interne is faced with a choice between love and duty when his own marriage goes on the rocks and he is summoned to operate on the husband of the nurse he really loves. If the man dies they can pick up the threads of life together. If he lives they are separated forever.

The supporting players handle their roles with uniform ability. Cliff Edwards is a good reporter; Helen Troy appears as a telephone operator; Janet Beecher, stage veteran, is head nurse and Leonard Penn is a sadistic surgeon.

Ordinarily, a journey across the Pacific aboard an old four-masted sailing vessel might prove very uneventful, but thrills and excitement—plus are the order of the day aboard the vessel on which the major part of the action of George O'Brien's new picture, "Windjammer," occurs. This picture marks a wide departure from the western type of roles usually essayed by the virile outdoor star. The sea is the background of this thrill laden plot, which starts as a California-to-Honolulu yacht race and finishes with the smashing of a plot to hold a wealthy girl for ransom, and destruction of the sinister schooner with its murderous captain and crew. The girl in the story is ably portrayed by Constance Worth. The supporting cast includes Brandon Evans, Gavin Gordon, and William Hall.

'Artists and Models' Will be Shown at Rio

Radio, generally considered the "baby" among entertainment mediums, has just discovered that instead of being a child, it can justly claim to be the daddy of the new Jack Benny musical, "Artists and Models," which opens soon at the Rio theater, with a cast headed by Benny, Ida Lupino, Gail Patrick, Richard Arlen, Ben Blue, Judy Canova, Louis Armstrong's Swing Orchestra, Martha Raye, Connie Boswell, and Andre Kostelanetz's Orchestra.

Benny, starring in the film, is heard regularly every Sunday over a coast-to-coast hookup. Misses Lupino and Patrick, and Arlen, have appeared many times as guest stars on nationally-broadcast programs. Judy Canova, hillbilly comedienne, gained her tremendous popularity, which led to the offer to appear in "Artists and Models," on the air, and Connie Boswell is a member of the famous Boswell Sisters, radio songstresses.

Martha Raye, familiarly known as the "Ultra-Violent Raye," depicts herself on the air every week—Andre Kostelanetz and his Orchestra are a regular weekly feature—and Louis Armstrong's Swing Orchestra has swing devotees hanging over the loudspeaker, oblivious to everything but Ol' Louis' trumpet blaring away.

"Artists and Models," which is breaking attendance records everywhere, should prove to be one of the most popular attractions ever brought to Appleton. Watch for its early showing.

Book 'Midnight Taxi' For Elite Bargain Days

The toughest man on the "queer money" squad and the lovely queen of the counterfeit ritz he was sworn to bring to justice—to these fearless, relentless enemies love comes in a hail of bullets as death rides the running-boards in "Midnight Taxi." Twentieth Century-Fox film at the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days, with Brian Donlevy and Frances Drake in the featured roles.

With his cab throttle wide open and tires screaming, Donlevy enacts a stirring portrayal as a Federal man in disguise who chases desperate trigger men and careens into romance with Frances Drake, a lovely girl in a man's world of crime.

From the original Argosy Magazine story by Borden Chase which excited all lovers of red-blooded fiction, director Eugene Forde has created a thrilling screen play of Federal activity against counterfeiters, based on actual records of the Treasury Department.

Because they use taxicabs as a front for their distribution of the contraband, secret agent Donlevy becomes a convincing caddy, is initiated into the organization, which is led by Alan Dinehart, Sicilian and Gilbert Roland, and proceeds methodically to bring them to justice. The romance which lovely Frances Drake, also a gang member, injects unexpectedly into his plans creates unusual suspense before the law wins.

Boiler Works Reports Increase in Business

The Fox River Boiler Works is having its busiest month of the year, while the year's production is expected to approach the level of 1932, a company official said today. The business upturn was not due to any exceptionally large contracts, but to a general increase in demand. Several new men were added to the working force recently.

Phrase of Three Notes In Song of Wood Thrush

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Have you ever listened to a bird in strange surroundings and felt, as you listened, that the song was hauntingly familiar, perhaps something remembered from years ago, or a repetition of a song heard at rare intervals, but the identity of the singer never discovered or long forgotten?

That is the feeling I had when, a few weeks ago, I heard the song of the wood thrush.

Clara Hussong thrush. Not that the bird is unknown to me, for I seldom miss its visits to town during the spring migration. Thrushes rarely sing until they reach the site of their summer homes and although they have been reported as breeding in various spots near Green Bay I have failed to find them except during their migratory flight.

Since I've lived in this part of the state I have heard the songs of our other two thrushes on many occasions. The Wilson's thrush, or very, was unknown to me until a few years ago when I found them breeding near the west bay shore. They came back every year since then and this year appeared to be more numerous than ever. Each time we visited the place we heard them singing their quivering spiral notes. We have also heard them in the Sheboygan marsh and near Shawano lake.

On much rarer occasions I have heard the hermit thrush, our sweetest singer of all. Door county and the Silver Cliff district in Marinette county are my two best bets when looking for this lover of solitude. Both the very and the hermit choose a swampy wood for their homes but the wood thrush prefers somewhat drier locations. A rich, moist wood or an old orchard are two good places to look for them. They are said to be more sociable than the other thrushes but in my experience they are still more elusive.

Years ago I knew the wood thrush well. When we were children my sisters and I found one of their nests in a little wood near the farm. I can still see the solemn eyes of the mother bird watching us as we bent over the four greenish-blue eggs in the nest placed on a low horizontal branch of a cedar tree. We heard the song often and I thought I should never forget it but apparently I did.

On Blueberry Trip

It was on a blueberry picking trip that I heard the song again. My brother had been given some vague instructions as to where the berries were to be found, somewhere at the eastern edge of County near Highway 64. We were to look for the berries under jack pines and "poppies" and a particularly good spot was said to be near two big Norway pines.

These vague directions disturbed Charlie but they delighted my sister and me. It meant that we would make many stops and scout around a good deal and enable us, perhaps, to find a new bird or flower. When we reached the brook that crosses the highway we made our first stop. The berries were poor but my sister found a tiny white flower which we recognized as an orchid. We identified it later as the dwarf rattlesnake plantain.

Several more stops were made, each time near jack pines and aspens, but the bushes had either just been picked or the berries were too small to be worth picking. Because the vegetation in the higher ground had been badly burned by the heat and drought we decided to try lower land.

At one of these stops, near Shay lake, I found a cicada just completing its final molt. Its wings were still tightly folded and the insect appeared to be lifeless on the oak leaf on which I had placed it. Knowing that Erna would be interested in watching the "coming to life" process of the molting cicada I called to her but she motioned for me to "Keep still, but come along" to the wooded slope where she stood.

Then, I too, heard the song that held her attention. A phrase of three flute-like notes, a barely perceptible pause and then the three notes repeated in a slightly higher key. Both of us whispered "A thrush," and immediately the lines

Boyd Plays in New 'Hopalong' Story

Western Hero Tames Mining Town in Current Picture at Elite

Clarence E. Mulford's hard-fighting Western hero tames a roaring mining town of the Old West, almost single-handed, in the latest of his adventures to be presented in film form, "Hopalong Cassidy Returns." The picture, featuring William Boyd as Hopalong, one of the screen's favorite heroes, is showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

In "Hopalong Cassidy Returns," Boyd is given a role which identifies him, in a way with Wild Bill Hickok, Bat Masterson, Wyatt Earp and several other almost legendary characters of the boom days of the West. Given the job of bringing law and order to lawless Mesa Grande, he finds he must buck the opposition of a gang of thieves who make the Crystal Slipper saloon their hangout, and who are ruled by a woman, Evelyn Brent. Plenty of hard-riding, gunfire and hand-to-hand combat go into the assignment.

Incidents of the war to stamp out crime in Mesa Grande bring about a score of thrill-packed situations, following each other in rapid-fire succession. A gun battle in the street outside the Crystal Slipper; a final "do-the-finish" fight when the outlaws make a fortress of an isolated mine opening, and seize Cassidy's younger brother as hostage, and a pistol duel between Cassidy and one of the worst of the cutthroats, are among them. The story is fast, furious and loaded with excitement.

A cast of such favorites as George Hayes, Gail Sheridan, William Janney, Jr., Irving Bacon, Grant Richards and Stephen Morris head the cast.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—The last from the country had come to town, her first visit in six weeks; she said, "I walked along the boulevard restaurant-bound for lunch, old friends greeted her with the surprised enthusiasm usually reserved for out-of-towners."

And that's what she is, this Ann Dvorak, an out-of-towner. So is Leslie Fenton, her husband. Country-life-in-Hollywood, as they practice it, is really something.

They have been country-folk on their 65-acre ranch near Van Nuys about four years now, and they don't miss Hollywood, and they think they never will. They work here—but they live at home. Home is only half an hour or so from Vine and Hollywood boulevard but they don't often make the trip.

She's Crazy About Flowers

Ann looks like a walking advertisement of the life. Smoothly tanned, healthy, bright-eyed. Hasn't gone hayseed—I don't mean that. When she comes to town she dresses smartly, as a movie actress should. When she stays home, she wears slacks or shorts or overalls, and works.

The Fentons have a rambling Spanish-style farmhouse that has been growing almost constantly since they built it. They have a swimming pool, flowers, chickens, birds, even a wild rabbit. The "money crop" is walnuts. They cleared about $6,000 on these last year. Ann is more interested in the flowers. She works there even when there are no cameras around.

"They're fascinating," she says. "When you really love flowers and study them, working with them is something like—like a religious rite."

They have a glass house and a lathe house—and camellias, gardenias and other floral aristocrats are fairly commonplace. The Fentons pantries and cineraria took blue ribbons at the last flower show. Ann has a friend in Central America who sends her seeds of tropical plants. The fun, with these, is waiting to see what they'll be when they come up.

Like to Globe Trot

The nice thing about the Fentons' country-life-in-Hollywood is that they don't make it a burden and a duty. "We went," as Ann said, "through the cow period but it didn't work out. Sweetheart was too much trouble. Sweetheart wasn't happy with us. Hugh Herbert has her now, and I'm sure she's happy."

These Fentons, when they talk about a trip, don't mean a trip to town. Just now they're talking about Greece. As soon as both of them can get three months off from pictures, they're going. In a freighter, as usual. It's the only way to travel, both say. Not speedy, but they don't crave speed.

The last time they went to Europe, Ann was running away from a contract. The Warners didn't like it. Ann lost out in court, but the studio released her anyway. Now she has another contract, but she thinks she'll get her vacation and not have to run away, this time.

Sound Comes Later

They still make quite a few silent pictures in Talkietown. Metro leading off with 30 a year. . . . Talk and sound are added later to the Pete Smith, Robert Benchley, and Carey Wilson specialties, but on the set they don't bother with a mike, and you can sneeze, snore, or tap-dance for all they care.

July Living Costs in Michigan Show Decrease

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The state department of labor and industry reported today living costs in Michigan were lower in July than in June.

It found food costs for a family of four averaged $8.06 a week in July, compared with $8.13 in June. These figures compared with $9.76 a week in the "base period" of 1923 to 1926, and with $7.74 a week in July, 1936.

The survey shows meat costs were four or five cents a pound higher than in June, but vegetables were three to seven cents less expensive.

McAdoo Bill Provides Increased Farm Incomes

Washington—(AP)—A senate agriculture subcommittee, conducting hearings on the McAdoo bill to put a cost-of-production floor under domestic farm prices, received from former Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa today a prediction it would raise farmers' income seven to eight billion dollars annually.

Replying to a question by Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) as to specific prices, Brookhart said the bill would just about maintain present prices in a year of abundant crops.

Under the bill the secretary of agriculture would estimate the volume of production of each major crop and domestic needs. He then would estimate the fair cost of production and fix the price to be paid farmers for that part of the crop to be consumed domestically at this figure plus a four per cent capital return.

Arnold, Farmer In New Picture

Stars of "Come and Get It" Play Leads in "The Toast of New York"

Starting Friday, the Rio theater presents one of the outstanding twin hit bills ever presented anywhere, headed by "The Toast of New York," with a huge cast of favorites including the star combination of "Come and Get It," Edward Arnold and Frances Farmer.

The second attraction of the program brings Appleton the world premier showing of Jane Wither's comedy sensation, "Wild and Woolly." Studio reports indicate this little star's latest picture to be the funniest she ever made.

Bringing to the screen the romance based upon the career of Jim Fisk, one of the most colorful and spectacular financiers, "The Toast of New York" presents Edward Arnold, Cary Grant, Frances Farmer, Jack Oakie and a huge cast in a glittering panorama of American drama.

Fisk, beginning as a small-town peddler, quickly becomes one of the most powerful money barons of Wall Street. Amassing a fortune from the manipulation of the stock of the Erie Railroad, he lavishes a king's ransom on Josie Mansfield, an unknown beauty whom he sponsors and makes a Broadway star.

Forbidden by the courts to conduct a business of the Erie in New York, the resourceful Fisk moves the headquarters of the company to Jersey City, and when it seems that Commodore Vanderbilt will gain control of the road, Fisk works the reprints presses overtime to issue more securities. Colorful and flamboyant, his name is repeatedly on the front pages of the daily newspapers and his lavish spending is the eighth wonder of the period. His end is equally as sensational as his rise.

Frances Farmer has the Josie Mansfield role. Cary Grant is cast as Jim Fisk's pal "Dandy" Boyd. Jack Oakie, another crony of the meteoric financier, has a side-splitting comedy role. Rare humor as well as spectacular drama, pervades the action.

'San Quentin' to Open At Appleton Tuesday

With Pat O'Brien starred, and such excellent players as Humphrey Bogart, Barton MacLane, Joseph Sawyer and Ann Sheridan in supporting roles, the melodrama "San Quentin," has been scheduled as the first attraction on the double feature program at the Appleton Theatre next week Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

While the story is laid in and about the famous penitentiary that juts into San Francisco Bay, it is not one of those sorrowful movies about condemned men and last hours and that sort of thing. There is no execution, there is nothing sappy about the picture. It is enlivened by many scenes taken "out-side"—even by a San Francisco night club, where Miss Sheridan is a singer who falls in love with O'Brien, who is an ex-Army officer just appointed to be Captain of the Yard at San Quentin. It is simply a swiftly-moving melodrama dealing with the prisoners, the lives they lead—some good, some evil, even behind walls—and the officers who guard them.

In one of the gayest and most fanciful comedies to reach the screen in many a month, Edward Everett Horton, noted character comedian, and lovely Genevieve Tobin, will be seen, in the second feature on this program, "The Man in the Mirror" is a hilarious and farce comedy, dealing with the extraordinary situations which eventually when a man's reflection in a mirror suddenly takes life and physical existence on its own account.

Way of Playing Hand Indicated by Bidding

A Little Saturday Talk

Last Saturday we did not have enough space to give all of the letter from Mrs. Shorty, telling about her pet deer, Juney. After finding it as a baby fawn about three weeks old, hurt in the woods, she took it to her camp and fed it. First she gave the little deer milk, then supplied it with dried apples, blueberry pie, and so on.

"During the hunting season," the letter goes on, "I tried to protect Juney by tying a sheep bell and a large bandanna handkerchief around her neck. That worked very well, and she grew up to be a perfect deer."

"The wild instinct showed up after the second year, and she left me late in October. I thought she might have gone back to the wilds for good but was not sure. I walked through the woods and blew my bugle. In times past, this had always brought her to camp, but now she did not answer my call.

"I had given up hope when, in early April, a deer walked into camp. She looked at my boy, then passed him by and walked up to my cottage. My boy called to me, 'I think this is Juney,' and it was!

"When she saw me, she acted like a long-lost child. She licked my cheek, and looked into my pocket for sugar which I had been in the custom of keeping there at all times. What a memory for a wild animal!"

"One day the next month, Juney

Many Trials in Sight As Boy Reaches Teens

BY ANGELO PATRI

Henry had arrived at his first pair of longies, and his first girl. After much persuasion and many promises, Henry had secured permission to take Lila to the afternoon movies. Lila, who lived next door, got ready first, and she went into Henry's house, as she had been doing since she was born, and as Henry had been doing in his turn. To Henry she was a glorified being in her bright pink dress and her funny button-sized pill-box hat that couldn't be anchored on her curly head. To Toby, Henry's adoring small brother, she was just the same girl that got mixed up in his affairs frequently.

"O hullo, Lila, where you going in your new dress? Mother wouldn't let Henry put on dad's new tie. Did your mother let you wear her new hat? Can't you make it stick on better? Did you see my dog?"

"O, how sweet. How adorable. Isn't he darling? Let me hold him. Toby, O, Henry, isn't he simply adorable? Let's take him with us for a walk. The puppy was fat and wobbly, six weeks from birth to Toby's idolization. Walking was out of the question for him. Besides, Toby couldn't see why his dog should be lifted from his arms just like that.

"Certainly, certainly, of course, we'll take him. Just a little dog I got. Like him? Of course, take him along."

This was too much. Toby made a dive for Lila and his dog. "You give me that dog. He's mine. He is too. Ma-ma, make Lila give me his dog. Henry's giving him to her as if he was his dog. Big stiff. Showing off in front of girls. You give me that dog—Ma-ma-a."

Mother hurried to the rescue. Taking in Henry's wrathful embarrassment and Toby's distress as she came she said to Lila, "How pretty your gown is. Better put him down, dear. He isn't trained yet you know, and something might happen."

"Yes," said Toby, "he wets like anything."

At this point the door opened and Aunt Caroline, Henry's favorite relative appeared with a large white box that bespoke the birthday cake. For this was Henry's fifteenth birthday. Forgetting his wrath and shame, he turned to face this latest threat to his maturity. Turning his back toward Lila, he whispered hoarsely behind his hand, "I'm seventeen, don't tell. Lila had been persuaded to go with him this day, because he had reached the glory of Seventeen. A hint would bring his castle crashing about his head. With lightning-like speed he darted through the door pulling the astonished Lila after him, her feet hand waving frantically in the direction of the titling pill-box.

Aunt Caroline and mother collapsed on the sofa in a fearful laughter. Toby settled himself on the floor uttering wrathful, caressing speeches to his dog. "The big stiff. Wanting to cop my dog. My own dog. The big stiff." Such is the painful difference between nine and fifteen. It is better to laugh than to cry. Usually one does both.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

It's Hard to Gain Weight In Summer

BY ELSIE PIERCE

On Weight Gaining

T. K.: Summer is not, as a rule, the time to expect to gain weight. We usually eat less, particularly during very warm days because the heat cuts one's appetite and fat-tening, heavy dishes certainly lose their appeal. In your case, however, since you are taking an extended vacation I would suggest that you make a very definite effort to gain. You are at least twenty pounds overweight and should be able to gain eight or ten pounds in six weeks without overtaxing yourself. Rest all you can. Try to remain in bed for one week reading or knitting, or if that seems too distasteful, spend one day a week in bed. Don't do strenuous exercise, merely walk for about an hour a day, in the fresh air. Stay outdoors all you can, and learn to breathe deeply. Since you know that there is nothing organically or systemically wrong with you, I feel sure that if you make an effort to take more food, have more butter, cream, ice cream, cheese, eggs, milk, cream and cream sauce with plenty of fruits, vegetables and salads you should put those ten pounds on and quickly. I have more complete information outlined in my bulletin on "Weight Gaining" and shall be happy to send it to you if you will write asking for it by name and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

"Foot Story"

Hammer toes, corns, bunions—the three things of which you complain are probably all the result of the same cause, improper shoes. You say that you are now very careful to have shoes properly fitted to you, but it may be that years gone by your shoes were too short and too narrow. All three conditions belong to the foot specialist and I would advise you to consult one immediately. Even if he cannot offer you corrective treatment, he can at least tell you whether you are wearing the proper shoes to avoid aggravating the conditions.

Dark Polish with Sunburned Skin
K. I. E. Yes, as the hands become sunburned a darker nail polish is preferable and one with a little more orange than rose cast usually more coming. It is not necessary to have nail and toe polish exactly the same shade, this is the basic tone of the polishes harmonize that is sufficient and the rule is: the toe polish darker than fingernail polish if they are not both the same shade.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

ON THE SUBJECT I LIKE BEST
Dear Mrs. Post: We are going to build a house—a typical New England farm house—a story and a half with a long one-story ell and woodshed. I would like very much to have the floors of wide pine boards, random widths, painted.

But many people are warning us against using soft wood for floors as they dent very easily when furniture is moved over them. Do you think a hardwood floor (painted) would be more practical? Also, in painting the floors, would it be in better taste to do them all the same color or to vary them? And what color would be typical and good to do the stairs in?

Answer: The floors of the old part of the house in which I am now writing have been in use for more than a hundred and fifty years. They have (I think) a lovely unevenness—just enough to have a charm that a hard smooth one entirely lacks. I wouldn't change them for anything. I wish the ones in the new rooms were just the same. If your house is very small, thin floors like usually look best.

If it is very big, then I should prefer that they each room. Dry sand color—really light—shows no foot-prints. In this house the dining room floor is bright blue, woodwork white, paper bright yellow with Chinese teapots in bright blue, the furniture is maple, and the table top, painted blue. The halls, including stairs and living room, porch room and three other rooms, have grey-blue green floors—emerald green enameloid paint mixed with quite a lot of white and black. One pinkish room and one vivid flame have light brown painted (not stained) floors. In the back of the house all the floors are covered with blue and white linoleum.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it just as possible to overdo one color in a room as it is to overdo the use of many colors within four walls? If it isn't, I would like to do each room in my house almost entirely in one color—using throughout the four colors I like best, namely, blue, green, yellow and dusty pink.

Answer: I like your idea very much. In fact, it is just the way I do my own rooms always. Each should have a relieving note of other color, but that is enough.

Dear Mrs. Post We are moving into a new apartment this fall and are taking a long lease so that carpeting the floors throughout seems worth while. Heretofore we have used smaller rugs because they seemed more practical. A friend suggested a rug for the dining room instead of a wall to wall carpet. But I should like to have your opinion about this deviation first, please.

Answer: It is entirely a question of your personal taste. Wall to wall carpets make a room look bigger. Rugs are more easily taken up to be cleaned. Personally I like the plain rugs best, but figured ones show wear less.

Dix Urges Married Man To Let Flirtation Die

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am 34 years old. Have been married eight years to a wife who is everything any one could expect a wife to be—kind, understanding, considerate, clever, good-looking, wonderful personality and very popular. We have been very happy together. BUT—this summer on my vacation I accidentally met a very charming and beautiful young woman. We went to a few dances and shows and I found myself enjoying her company a great deal more than I should, but thought it would be forgotten when I got back to work. This, however, is not the case. I think of her continually. I do not know if I am in love with this girl or not, but she has awakened in me a desire to be free again. She has stirred up in me a sort of dissatisfaction with married life. I find it something confining rather than the companionship I regarded it before. Have I fallen in love with this girl whom I met only once or twice? Shall I write to her? Free has she made me feel that I want to be free again?

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: I urge you not to write to the girl. It will be best for her, best for your wife and for better for yourself to let the little flicker of romance die out. Call it a summer flirtation and forget it. To enter into a correspondence with the young woman would be piling fresh fuel on the flames and the ensuing conflagration would probably burn down your home and scorch you into the bargain.

You are in very great danger because you are deliberately leading yourself into temptation. Love is mostly imagination and self-hypnotism and you are working yourself up into a state in which you fancy yourself enamoured of a strange girl. You turn her image over and over in your thoughts, flashing all sorts of pink romantic lights upon it. You are amusing yourself by attributing to her all kinds of charms and graces until you have fashioned an image of perfection. You are even deceiving yourself imagining thrills that you never experienced.

In a word, you are encouraging yourself to fall in love, although you know that love is bound to bring disaster upon you and two innocent women. You know that it does not enhance any married man's standing in the community for him to have extra-marital affairs. The philanderer is held in contempt by every one, and looked upon as a poor weak creature who cannot resist a fluttering skirt. Nor is the unfaithful husband held in greater esteem. For people subconsciously feel that the man who is disloyal to his wife is not to be trusted. Besides, the wife has the public's sympathy if she is a good woman. Many a man's downfall financially begins with his swapping of an old wife for a new one.

All of this being true, it is strange that when a man finds out that he is beginning to be interested in some other woman than his wife that he does not flee temptation, but, like you, rushes out to meet it.

As for your sudden dissatisfaction with marriage and your longing for freedom, that is nothing but the inevitable revulsion of feeling that comes to us all in every relation of life and no matter what we are doing.

The people we love best and without whom we really have no interest in life suddenly pall upon us and we feel that we want to get as far away from them as possible. The food we like grows distasteful and we lose our appetite for it. We weary of our ambitions, our plans, our aspirations and want to throw them up and do something else. We tire of our work and feel we will die if we have to go on at the same old job.

No human being but has felt that. No marriage so happy but what at times it was a prison to the man and woman out of which they longed to break. No career, no business, no occupation but which a man has been tempted to give up. But if we are wise we do not rush to the divorce courts, or throw away the career or business we have spent years in building up. We dig our toes in and carry on, and the mood passes. As it will with you.

My Neighbor Says—

Light fertilization in the Fall is helpful to plants, but plants are in a better state to absorb fertilizers in the Spring.

Water spots may be removed from velvet if it is held over the steam escaping from a teakettle for a few minutes. Shake it in the air until thoroughly dried, then brush.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. Farrington
Dahlias, which are now at the height of their blooming season, are not as useful for cutting as some other flowers, but can be made to keep fairly well if given special treatment. Some growers put cracked ice, ammonia and salt into the vases. Others use a little aspirin and report that flowers which have become badly wilted have their freshness restored to a degree that is almost magical. The hot water treatment, though, is most commonly depended upon. The foliage should be stripped from the stems except at the top, and these stems then immersed in water as hot as the hand can bear. When the water cools, the dahlias should be transferred to pails of cold water and left in the cellar overnight. It has been found at exhibitions that dahlias can be made to keep especially well by spraying them with water, using an atomizer.

FLAME TRAIL

SYNOPSIS: Just as Ted Gaynor is desperate about to set a forest fire to get a job, Kay Crandon stops him. She looks like a girl who likes him, she gives him a place at the Lazy Nine. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy the Lazy Nine and marry Kay after her ranch house and barn burn. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted starts the outfit to cut its own timber and rebuild without pay. Hastings tries to tie up the only available timber land, but Ted wins the race for an option. Then whips a Hastings puncher in a boxing ring. Kay, Tom Runyon, the fire patrol, shows up at the Lazy Nine.

Chapter 17

SETH MAKES A SLIP

KAY felt all her first suspicions about the ranch fire revive, but she remembered Dan Steele's warning and held her peace. While this Tom Runyon seemed all right, and a kindly and genial enough person, she didn't really know anything about him. So it would pay to go slow.

If he wanted to go ahead investigating on his own initiative, he might unearth something that would give some foundation for her suspicion of Josh Hastings. But while she must be very careful not to voice the direction in which her suspicions lay, there was one point on which she must set him straight right away.

"I am absolutely certain that Seth and our outfit are above suspicion," she stated positively. "So if you're looking for foul play, you can count them out from the start."

"Maybe," he nodded his approval of her loyalty. "But when you're starting out to look for clues you can't be handicapped by any foregone conclusion. You just leave the investigating to me. All I want you to do is to answer a few questions."

"Gladly—but let's wait until after supper," Kay leaned against the side of the cabin for a second, overcome by a sudden weary faintness.

Tom Runyon sprang to put a steady hand on her arm. "What's the matter?" he inquired anxiously.

"You look all in," "Nothing," Kay straightened up and smiled at him. "I'm just a little tired, I guess. I'll be all right as soon as I get something to eat!"

She went on up to the bunk house and I'll join you in a minute. I'm eating with the boys until I can get my own housekeeper's arrangements rigged up. You'll stay for supper.

Knights of Pythias to Hold Picnic

BASEBALL, horseshoe, boat-riding and other typical men's sports will be on the program at the picnic for the Knights of Pythias Sunday at Stroebeln Island. Judge Fred V. Heinemann will have his boat, Horsefeather, on the island to take the men on short cruises up and down the river during the day.

The day's events will begin between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning, and dinner will be served at noon. At the close of the afternoon program the men will return home.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the picnic includes Earl D. Miller, chairman; William Bonini, William Denstedt and R. O. Schmidt.

Because Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, will have its own picnic a week from tomorrow, no group arrangements are being made for local knights or families to attend the annual central Wisconsin picnic at Silver Lake, Wild Rose, Sunday. However, individual groups may drive over for all or part of the day.

A feature of the program will be the annual K. of C. and Columbian Squire softball tournament for which eight teams are entered. Councils which have been invited to attend the picnic are Antigo, Appleton, Arcadia, Baraboo, Beaver Dam, Berlin, Chippewa Falls, Clintonville, Columbus, Durand, Elroy, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Hartford, Hudson, Kaukauna, La Crosse, Madison, Manawa, Manitowish, Marinette, Marshfield, Mauston, Modford, Merrill, Neenah-Menasha, New London, Oshkosh, Portage, Rhinelander, Rice Lake, Sheboygan, Stevens Point, Two Rivers, Waterloo, Watertown and Wausau.

Past Presidents club of the Employees Mutual Benefit association will not have its picnic Tuesday, as had been planned. It will be given at a later date.

Pierson said, probably 90 per cent of the passengers used alcoholic beverages whereas only about 10 per cent indulge at the present time.

Begin Campaign Of Education on Welfare Survey

Committee of Five Will Be Named in County to Assist in Work

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A committee of five community leaders and officials will be chosen soon in Outagamie county to work with similar groups in every other county in the state to familiarize the public with the social welfare data collected by the Governor LaFollette's Citizens' Welfare committee during the last year.

Mrs. A. W. Schorger, Madison, president of the League of Women Voters and vice president of the Wisconsin Conference on Social Work, is in charge of the educational campaign, and announced here yesterday that the Outagamie county committee will in turn nominate subcommittees to handle the numerous parts of the state committee's exhaustive report, recently published and now available for distribution.

Letters explaining the campaign, Mrs. Schorger said, have been sent to more than 500 public spirited persons throughout the state. "We have had splendid response to our requests that a citizens' committee be formed in every county in order to help familiarize all of the people with the welfare problem," she explained.

Within the next two weeks half of the state's 71 counties will have committees functioning, publicizing the committee's researches and recommendations, on the basis of which Governor LaFollette will ask the legislature this fall to revamp the entire administration of public welfare in Wisconsin along modernized lines.

It is expected that the county committees and their subordinate groups will constitute pressure units which will urge local legislators to support the reorganization bill which will confront the special session of the legislature, scheduled soon after Labor day.

Names of the Outagamie county committee, and those in other counties in the Appleton area, will be made public in a few days. Mrs. Schorger said. The chairman is assisted by Mrs. Hugo Stoll, president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers of Wisconsin, F. N. MacMillan, secretary of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, Mrs. A. L. Blackstone, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, and Judge Ward Minton, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

Crop Loan Advocates in Explanation of Plan

Washington—(AP)—This is how crop loan advocates explain their theory:

When federal crop loans are in effect, a farmer need not sell his crop if open market prices are lower than the figure set in the loan contract.

For example, if the loan specifies a 10-cent valuation on a pound of cotton, the grower does not have to sell to buyers offering 8 cents. Unless offers induce him to sell later, he can repay the loan by turning his cotton over to the government's Commodity Credit corporation.

The corporation holds such cotton until the market can absorb it at a price equal to the loan.

Wausau Congressman to Seek Amendment to Bill

Washington—(AP)—Rep. Gerald Boileau, Wausau, Wis., said today he will attempt to amend the Bibbo Cotton laboratory bill, under consideration by the house agriculture committee, to include all agriculture products. The senate has passed the bill.

"I believe," said Boileau, "that such a laboratory for research should be established. I don't think it should be restricted to cotton but should be all-comprehensive."

The bill would provide $250,000 for establishment of a laboratory to find new uses for cotton. Boileau's proposed amendment would extend this to include new uses for grain and dairy products and vegetables.

Joannes Company Strike Settled at Green Bay

Green Bay—(AP)—Warehouse employees and truck drivers of Joannes brothers company were back at work this afternoon, after settlement of a strike which had been in progress since Wednesday morning. The settlement followed a conference of strikers' representatives and company heads with Herman Rauch, divisional director, and Carl J. Marsh, attorney for the Wisconsin Labor relations board, this morning.

The agreement, it was stated, gives the employees a five per cent increase in wages plus a bonus at the end of the year of whatever dividend is paid to stockholders.

Hair Pulling Marks First Dionne Quarrel

Callander, Ont.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, little ladies that they are, have learned to pull hair. And, Dr. A. R. Dufour disclosed today, they've been separated from each other all week as much as possible to eliminate suddenly developed outbursts of quarreling. The battles started last Monday when the little girls developed colds. Usually they get along famously, trading their toys with each other and smiling. But buckets of tears have been shed since those colds started. First of all, Marie quarreled with Cecile. Then Annette, Yvonne, and Emilie made it a general war. He said he thought, however, that they could get back into circivation again, giving the thousands of tourists who visit here a chance to see the famous girls—as soon as they are completely happy once more.

Wallace Is Giving Badger Farmer Raw Deal, Says Milk Pool Editor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Wisconsin agriculture "has consistently received unfair and unequitable treatment" at the hands of Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, says the Wisconsin Dairyman's News, organ of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool in a lead editorial this week denouncing the "arm chair experts" in the federal department of agriculture.

The publication, of which Harry Jack, Hortonville, Pool president, is an editor, asserts that the reason for Wallace's discrimination against Wisconsin dairy farmers is "our disagreement on a cut and dried Washington-made dairy program that no experienced dairy farmer could possibly accept as a solution to his problem."

Wisconsin, more than any other state, the paper continues, has carried on a soil conservation program in its agricultural industry, and now presents a penalty for such "foresight and accomplishment."

Mr. Wallace, the article goes on, recently reluctantly conceded that agriculture's national income should be about 12 per cent of the entire national income, "despite the fact that the farmers represent at least 24 per cent of the nation's population and are, therefore, justly entitled to 24 per cent of such national income, if equity and reasonable security are to prevail."

Secretary Wallace, whose primary interest is supposed to be the farmer, is much too concerned with the "general welfare" to bother about a concrete recognition of a fair deal for his industry and quite obviously relies, along with the president, on the inherent thriftiness, social economy and hard-working tradition of farmers' wives and children to continue their labors under conditions of peonage, all for the benefit of the administration's grandiose notions and dreams of a 35 hour week with fixed fair wages for urban labor, while the farmers continue to submit to a bondage bordering on slavery.

"Not only betrayed by those who should aid them, but helplessly dependent upon the vagaries of the weather and hopefully praying that the insect pests will not destroy all of their crop seems to be the lot of the farmer. And added to this not a sign of security beyond the reach of their eyes."

The nation, the paper warned, will soon "be in the midst of another depression if we continue to rely on using the farmers' patience."

Stark Realism Characterizes Duranty Story of Russian Life

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"ONE LIFE, ONE KOPEK," by Walter Duranty. To everyone who reads the New York Times, and to many thousands who do not, the name of Walter Duranty, author of "One Life, One Kopek" is a familiar one. He went to Russia fresh from the horrors of the Western front and for the last seventeen years has been Moscow correspondent for the "Times." He has learned the language, no mean feat in itself, he has lived the life of the people, has talked with peasant, worker and aristocrat, and as a result the inhabitants look upon him as one of themselves. He came to Russia with a mind impregnated with bitter antagonism toward the Soviets. A close study of the entire economic problem has changed many of his preconceived ideas, though he still deplores the methods employed by the present regime. He has succeeded in interviewing Stalin on two different occasions and in 1933 he accompanied Litvinov to the United States when this country resumed economic relations with Russia.

Mr. Duranty's first novel tells Americans more about conditions in Russia today than they could glean for themselves from a lengthy visit there, where they would be allowed to see and observe only what Soviet officialdom permitted.

"One Life, One Kopek" tells the story of a young peasant lad who has been taken into the family of a wealthy aristocrat as a companion for their young son and daughter.

Ivan has been educated as carefully as his "young master," and lived in the same house. While the two boys are still in their teens "Mik-bail, the 'young master,' becomes involved in a drunken brawl in a low dive. Ivan leaps to his young master's rescue, the police intervene, Mikbail escapes and leaves Ivan unjustly to take the blame. Exile to a Siberian labor camp is the punishment meted out to the innocent Ivan. Life in the prison camp is intolerable and finally Ivan escapes by murdering his commanding officer, a horrible man who richly deserves his violent end. After wandering in the dense woods for a week, hungry and half-frozen, Ivan is rescued by a Russian girl who has been living alone in an isolated hut since the recent death of her brother, from tuberculosis. Hilda shelters him for months until the two isolated exiles are visited by a man who is even then organizing the Workers party. Ivan joins the party, promises to work unceasingly for its growth and follows his new leader back to Moscow. Here he takes an assumed name, joins the army and serves with distinction for a year. Later he leaves his regiment, and secures a job in a munitions factory making shells. His duty there is to disseminate the doctrines of Bolshevism amongst the factory workers. Because of his trained mind, and in spite of his youth, he soon becomes a power in the Bolshevik party and is sent from place to place spreading the gospel.

Ivan is almost betrayed by a beautiful entertainer in a night club with whom he is having a casual affair. He is obliged to kill a government police spy in the munitions factory by throwing him into the machinery, which grinds him to pulp. Later one of his old officers, who is about to expose him as a deserter from the army, is murdered by Ivan to preserve his incognito. When it begins to look as though things were going smoothly, he meets and falls desperately in love with Nina, the sister of his former "young master," in whose home he had spent the early years of his life. Innumerable complications arise as a consequence of Ivan the Bolshevik's love for Nina, the daughter of a loyal White Russian. The story has the brutality, the bestiality, the stark horror and cruelty that are the inevitable concomitants of civil war. Life is held to be of no more value than one kopek. The air is impregnated with mutual suspicion and bitter hatred. One feels it in every word uttered by peasant, soldier or worker. The discipline of the country's armed forces is almost completely destroyed. The aim of every man and woman is revenge. It is stark realism of the most violent type but so interestingly told that one can't put the book down. It is not pleasant reading but one knows that he is getting the "low-down" on conditions as they exist in Russia today and for that reason the book is very much worth while. It is neither elevating nor inspiring in theme though amazingly well written, with the snap and punch of a typical newspaper man who reports facts, and does not bother with mental processes.

BOARD TO MEET

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Kaukauna at Manitowoc (a. m.)
Kimberly at Two Rivers
Manitowoc at Kaukauna (3:00)
(First half championship playoff.)

THE Kaukauna Electric City brewers, who have been performing in the last couple of days with about as much zip as some of the prohibition era beer, will show in two games tomorrow in the Northern State league with one meaning a lot and the other little or nothing.

In the morning the Kaws will invade Manitowoc for a second round league game and won't pay much attention to the outcome although they promise they'll try to win. Just how much success they'll have is a question which will be answered when the Ships send their hurler to the mound.

At the moment he may be Lefty Feltman whom the Ships used in a practice game the other evening and who looked good. Otherwise the tosser will be Palmer Rosinsky, for Lefty Schoepke will be saved for the big game in the afternoon at Kaukauna when the first round championship will be at stake. If Kaukauna probably will use Brokup on the mound. He has shown a fair amount of ability when he chooses to bear down and if the Kaws start swatting the ball for him and Manitowoc thinks too much of the afternoon game, he may come through with a win.

Start at 3 o'clock
The afternoon contest is scheduled at the Kaukauna park starting at 3 o'clock and is the game that has been cussed and discussed at length for the last month. The Kaws and Ships ended in a tie for the first round title and first agreed on a 3-game series, then disagreed and finally flipped a coin. The Manitowoc team was scared of the night ball angle at Kaukauna and finally suggested one game to go wherever the coin indicated.

Kaukauna got the game and then asked it be shifted to Manitowoc because of a proposed legion baseball tournament. The tournament fell through, however, the Kaws asked the game be played at home and Manitowoc got all excited and aroused over the kicking-about tactics.

But now it seems the game finally will be played and the arguing appears to have stirred up a lot of interest and there should be a pretty fair crowd around when the first ball is tossed. The Ships are anything but popular in Kaukauna because of their "beef" about the lights and if the Kaws can knock off the lake shore boys in the daylight, someone is going to get an awful ribbing.

Manitowoc will send Lefty Schoepke against Sonny Carvenaugh for Kaukauna. The Kaws have been inclined to like south-paw hurlers and Lefty may be in for a bad afternoon. Carvenaugh hasn't hurled since last Sunday and should be in rare form.

Manitowoc will show without Manager Joe Vnuuk in the outfield but "Birdie" Zigmund, who plays second on them forever, Lefty Gorell of hockey fame will be back at first after a vacation while Gospodarek, who played the initial cast last week, will take Borth's place in the outfield.

Otherwise the Ships will show McCambridge at Short, Zigmund at second, Wilda in right, Gray at catch, Scherer or H. Rosinsky at third.

The Kaukauna lineup will be the same as that which has performed in the last couple of games. Eggert will be at first, Vils or Vondrasek at second, Powell at short, Zelinski at third and Peck catch. In the outfield, Rader in left, Bowers in center, and Kappell or Vils in right will do chores.

Chutters Oppose Bays
Little Chute's Hollanders will start at the village at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning against Green Bay. The game has been scheduled in the morning to give players and fans a chance to see the big battle at Kaukauna in the afternoon.

The Chutters, kicked around the loop for the last two months, and losers in several hard-luck games, are determined to bump the Bays out of first place if possible. The Hollanders figure Lady Luck can't hang on them forever, and that perhaps tomorrow will be the day when she'll give them a win instead of a defeat by a single run. In the last game with the Bays, the Chutters led 3 to 1 until the eighth and then a couple bad breaks and hits gave the game to the Bays.

With Weisgerber in top form and the team playing on the home lot for the first time in four starts, the Chutters feel they'll come down to earth and surprise the league leaders.

Several changes in the Chutter lineup have been announced. Harold Van Dyke will be at first in place of Bill Peotter who must work. Howie Ellis will return to second after being missing for a couple weeks and with Bongers at short and T. Versteeg at third the infield looks like a ranking combination.

Lefty Smith has been assigned the centerfield post. Lucassen will scupper in right and Bob Lamers in left with Jack Lamers catching. Ed. Willenberg, Joe Strick, Van

HOPE TO CLINCH CITY LEAGUE CROWN TO MORROW

Valley Iron Works softball team, shown above, will attempt to end the series for the American City league softball title at 10:30 Sunday morning at Pierce park when the second game will be played with the Kohal Taverns. The Irons won the first contest, 8 to 4, and because they hold several other wins over the Taverns in the last couple of weeks, are heavy favorites to end proceedings. The Irons won the second round honors and the Kohals the first round. Members of the Irons on the picture are, top row, left to right, Lefty Fredericks, Bill Fredericks, Elmer Horn, Art Shink, Casey Smith, Tuffy Horn, Chick Grishaber and Bob Burns, manager; seated, left to right, Ken Friebe, Frank Kroiss, Bill Ogilvie, Lloyd Dedeker, Bobbie Diener, Parker Schultz and Paul Grishaber. Legion and Wolters Teams Clash Monday

American Legion softballers, many of whom have been pulled out of the mothballs to perform on the team, will clash with the Wolters at 6 o'clock Monday evening at the Commercial street diamond. McKenzie will toss for the Veterans and Elmer Schabo will show how a big time coach works at third base and how the bag should be played. The two teams have played twice so far this season and both games have been sensational exhibitions.

Head Coach Charles "Gus" Dorais of the University of Detroit, with assistant Lynn Wolford of Northwestern, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Bernie Moore of Louisiana State and Jimmy Phelan of Washington, conferred over plays the collegians will use against the professional champions.

Every and Schuler will be ready for utility work.

Kimberly's Papermakers will invade Two Rivers for their Northern State league game Sunday intent on getting a .500 average in the standings. Two Rivers hasn't been having much better luck than the villagers and they see no reason for not moving ahead of the Cool City boys in the standings. LaDuke, now fairly well recovered from injuries, will toss for Kimberly while Harlan Bohne probably will work for Two Rivers after a brief sojourn in the Northern league at Wausau.

Pegler Sees Arrogance Proved in Revenue Order

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York.—The United Press has a dispatch out of Washington reporting that the bureau of internal revenue has been instructed to refrain from persecution, and to give everyone a square deal in mopping up the cases against persons accused of employing clever little schemes to avoid income taxes. These instructions come from the treasury department and they prove better than all speeches that have been made and all the protests that have been written, the arrogance of a powerful government department in its dealings with the subject of tax avoidance and evasion took the position that only the taxpayers or avoiders could possibly stoop to immoral or unethical practices, and completely ignored the notorious fact that the law enables reviewing agents to persecute individuals for political and personal reasons.

Nevertheless, officials of the treasury have admitted that these employees of the government have discretionary powers in certain income tax matters to approve or disallow deductions, according to their judgment or their personal disposition toward the citizen under review.

This authority is such that a politician in charge of a revenue district may give an agent private and confidential instructions to harass a political or commercial rival with meddlesome inquiries into matters which are none of the government's business, to pry deep into his personal affairs and, finally, to turn in an arbitrary and vindictive ruling on discretionary items which might just as reasonably be decided the other way. In short, it is a power to persecute.

Instructions Doubtless Prompted by Criticism

The instructions to the bureau doubtless were prompted by criticism of the notion which has been encouraged in the personnel of the bureau that they are men to be feared and placated. For years nobody bothered to challenge this bulldozing conduct, and some reviewers developed the mental attitude of the old-time pot-bellied cop toward the Sicilian proprietor of the corner peanut and apple stand.

Not only could they put a man to great expense and trouble in the course of the review, but if they were so inclined they might pin him to the necessity of defending himself against unjust and purely spiteful criminal charges.

And always there is the opportunity for a crook in the service to compromise a claim in the discretionary zone for a personal cash bribe, a fact which is frankly recognized by the treasury, but minimized on the ground that the men are high-class citizens and themselves subject to departmental espionage. High-class citizens some or most of them may be, but if their character is the taxpayers' protection against unjust treatment, then it is strange that the treasury now should have to give the bureau a special admonition to refrain from persecution.

Very likely in these cases the bureau will make a special effort to be outwardly fair, but, inasmuch as Mr. Roosevelt and the treasury department took the attitude that the defendants were guilty of immoral and unethical practice, even before the congressional hearings were started, it is improbable that any decisions will be given in favor of the accused, unless they want to go through expensive court proceedings.

President, Treasury Went Out on a Limb

The president and the treasury went out on a limb, convicting these people without trial, and it is hard to imagine a subordinate bureau of the government saving off that limb whatever justice may be. It is up to the bureau to make their chiefs look good and the boys in their discretion, will do their stuff.

The power of the reviewer and the element of persecution which are written into the present tax law, as the treasury has now acknowledged in its remarkable orders to the bureau, are no less dangerous than the so-called loopholes by which a few taxpayers may or may not escape paying their legal dues.
